PROBERS FAIL TO FIND CAUSE OF MINE BLAST

Congressmen Back In Capital, Declare They 'Got Nowhere' In Investigation.

OWENS HURLS CHARGES

Claims Disaster Which Was Fatal to 72 Could Have Been Prevented.

(By Associated Press)

ST. CLAIRSVILLE—Congressmen investigating the Willow Grove mine disaster returned to Washington today without tangible clues to the cause of an explosion which killed 72 men.

Representative Peterson (D-Fla.), chairman of the house subcommittee, said a two-hour inspection of the Hanna Coal company's mine and six hours of testimony at yesterday's hearing "got nowhere" in determining the cause of the blast last Saturday.

He said additional witnesses would be called to Washington after committeemen had studied the voluminous testimony, including charges by John Owens, Ohio president of the United Mine Workers, that the disaster could have been prevented by "rock dusting," to eliminate coal dust.

"It is time something were done to stop this organized and legal murder of our people," Owens said, adding that "all mines will be a reservoir that breeds death in the industry until basic mining necessities are adopted."

Owens asserted that the mine ventilating system should be changed; that a new explosive which "offers no chance of a windy shot or a blow-out" should be used instead of black powder for blasting operations; that the workings were excessively dusty and that mine inspectors "are victims of political circumstances."

Richard McGee, deputy mine inspector in charge of the district, disputed most of Owens' claims.

R. L. Ireland, Hanna president, said that the company took all accident precautions and provided modern equipment, but that the cause of the explosion was "beyond my comprehension."

Owens expressed the belief that the explosion resulted from a charge of blasting powder blowing out of its bore and igniting dust, instead of breaking coal loose as intended.

McGee said a four-day inspection of the mine three weeks ago showed it was "not much more dusty than any other mechanical mine" and that the ventilation was "better than ever." He said the main haulageway had been ordered "rock dusted," however, as a precautionary measure.

A dozen miners testified earlier that the workings were "very dusty."

STIRS GEORGIA

Promise of New Inquiry Made As Jury Indicts Lawmaker.

ATLANTA —(AP)— A congressman's indictment on charges of selling postal jobs and a federal investigator's promised return "within a few weeks" aroused speculation today over what new inquiries might develop in Georgia.

Rep. Frank Whelchel (D., Ga.) of Gainsville, Ga., fought back against his indictment by charging "political persecution" and promising to obtain vindication from voters in his campaign for a fourth term. He assailed O. John Rogge, assistant U. S. attorney general, and L. B. Schwartz, special assistant, as "publicity seeking lawyers."

Welchel claimed innocence and blamed the indictment on political opponents and "disappointed job-seekers."

This year, for the first time, the Dionne Quintuplets colored their own Easter eggs, and Emilie (left) and Annette are seen happily engrossed in the work. No old-fashioned eggs dyes were available, so they used regular water colors.

KILL GUNMAN IN SAFE CRACKING

Lorain Police Shoot Him Down, Capture Pal as They Flee Auto Sales Agency.

(By Associated Press)

LORAIN — Prospects of "easy money" lured a former Ohio penitentiary convict to death in a hail of police bullets and led to the capture of his safe cracking companion.

They were trapped by the alertness of a night watchman as they attempted to break into two safes last night at the Hawkins Motor Sales company on Broadway, in downtown Lorain.

Police identified the slain man as John Pawvlak, 34, of Cleveland, shot down by Lieut. Paul Clever and Patrolman Maurice Mumford as he attempted to flee, and named his companion as Frank Jersey, 36, also of Cleveland.

Pawvlak was shot as he tried to climb over a fence about a block and a half from the sales agency. He had crashed through the glass in the front door as police arrived. Jersey was found hiding under a truck in the service department of the agency.

Police quoted Jersey as saying Pawvlak recently was released from the Ohio penitentiary and approached him several days ago, asking if he would like to make "some easy money." Jersey denied that he knew Pawvlik was heading for the Hawkins agency when the two left Cleveland together last night.

William Bragg, 44, night watchman at the Hawkins company, said he heard pounding in the office while making his rounds at 10:40 p. m. He notified police from an outside telephone.

Neither of the two large safes had been opened, but combinations of both had been broken, officers said. E. J. Hawkins, owner of the garage and sales company, reported the safes contained about $500.

SEVEN EXECUTED

Leaders of Chinese Prison Mutiny Die Before Firing Squad.

HONGKONG —(AP)— A firing squad today executed seven ring leaders of last nights' mutiny at the Shumchun Chinese military prison.

Guards killed three and wounded many others when 200 prisoners attempted to jail break after hearing the Japanese had returned to the Chinese area near the Hongkong border which they left after a brief occupation last fall.

WANT BALL CLUB

Sportsmen Willing to Pay $5,000,000 For California Team.

LOS ANGELES—(AP)—Richard Cantillon, an attorney, said today he was representing a group of wealthy sportsmen interested in buying a major league baseball franchise for Southern California.

He said he had a capital of "upwards of $5,000,000" for the proposed project. Cantillon is a nephew of Joe Cantillon who managed the Washington Senators 30-odd years ago.

Here's Consolation, Next Easter Will Be Different

It'll Be 3 Weeks Later and There Shouldn't Be Any 7 Above Zero Weather to Chill Paraders.

This year's Easter weather will soon be water over the dam and there's no use crying over the fact that it is a total loss so far as Easter togs are concerned, but let's do a Pollyanna and dwell on the fact that next Easter will be three weeks later and the weather undoubtedly will be much warmer. And only a little over a year to wait.

Today is the coldest day of the month and the coldest March 23 in 15 years. The highest temperature for the past 24 hours was 29 and the lowest this morning was seven above zero. Last year on March 23 the high and low marks were 68 and 24, and on the same date in 1938 they were 65 and 56.

It is only infrequently that Easter falls as early as March 24, and it is equally rare to have genuine winter weather extend through the month of March.

But next year will be a different story. Easter will be three weeks later as it falls on April 13. Easter is determined by the Paschal moon, which is the first full moon after the official advent of Spring (usually on March 21), with Easter the first Sunday following.

Since the actual date on which Christ rose from the dead had (Continued on Page 5, Col. 1)

OPERA MOURNS HORSE STAR

Anna Pranced On Stage Of N. Y. Met For 25 Years.

NEW YORK—(INS)—There was sadness at the Metropolitan Opera today because Anna, for 25 years one of the stars of "Aida," was dead.

Anna was a resplendent white horse that pranced out on the stage in the great triumphal scene of "Aida," drawing the chariot in which rode the hero Rhadames after his conquest of the Ethiopians. After her distinguished career, Anna was retired in 1936 and given the run of the pastures at the Pegasus club in Rockleigh, N. J.

From all sides Anna was praised today as a great trouper.

Anna will be cremated today and her ashes will be returned to the Metropolitan Opera Thursday for a funeral service.

70-Ton Bomber to Be Tested by U. S. at Wright Field

DAYTON —(AP)— The government's new 70-ton bomber, described as the world's largest will be put through its paces this summer at Wright field, the army's testing "laboratory."

When army engineers get through with the plane, now near completion at the Douglas Aircraft plant in Santa Monica, Calif., they will have a detailed account of its performance.

Being built at the cost of $1,000,000 the bomber will be tested for speed, gas consumption, ease in flying, landing and take-off requirements and endurance, Col. O. P. Echols of the engineers' staff said.

The plane, designed to carry a useful load of 28 tons at a speed of 200 miles an hour and, it is hoped would be capable of a roundtrip flight across the Atlantic without stopping.

"The flight from California will be a test," Col. Lester T. Miller, in command of Wright field asserted.

Government officials said it has engines totaling 8,000 horsepower, a range of more than 6,000 miles, quarters for a crew of 10 men, and a wingspread of 210 feet.

FREED MONDAY, IN JAIL AGAIN

Youth Who Won Probation In Burglary Faces New Charge As Fingerprints Match.

Washington Carter, 24, colored, walked out of common pleas court Monday, free on probation for breaking and entering a Bowman street tavern. Today he was back in jail on the same charge.

Police said they arrested him after fingerprints left at the scene of a recent burglary "matched" those of Carter's on file in the identification department.

Carter will be arraigned before Judge G. E. Kalbfleisch in municipal court Monday on a charge of breaking and entering the J. B. Miller night club, 90 Orange street, on Feb. 5.

He is accused of the theft of three quarts of whisky and $1 in change from the cash drawer.

Carter was indicted by the county grand jury several weeks ago for breaking into the John Urdia tavern on Bowman street road.

He was jailed after he had been struck over the head with a blackjack and trussed up by Urdia who lay in wait in his establishment after several burglaries had occurred.

Entering a plea of guilty to the indictment Monday he was placed on three years probation by Judge C. H. Huston. He told the court at the time that he was not involved in any other burglaries.

PREMONITION!

Trucker Who Talked of Bad Brakes Found Dead Later.

BUTLER, Pa.—(AP)—Transporting an automobile convoy from Detroit to Oil City, Pa., 29-year-old Frank Snodgrass of East Butler stopped at a service station yesterday and told an attendant his brakes were not working properly.

"If you hear of an accident, you'll know it was me," the attendant quoted him.

Shortly afterwards the convoy plunged over a 50-foot embankment 30 miles north of here and caught fire. Snodgrass burned to death.

64 CHOSEN TO TAKE CENSUS IN RICHLAND

Enumerators to Get Course In Instruction Monday from District Director.

271 GIVEN JOBS IN 17TH

Decennial Quiz to Get Under Way April 2, Expected to Take 2 Weeks In City.

Sixty-four Richland county residents, tentatively selected as enumerators for the 16th decennial census which starts April 2, will be given a course of instruction here Monday.

The schooling will be conducted in the American Legion auditorium under the supervision of Don Harper, Mt. Vernon, 17th congressional district census director.

The course will be held one day next week in each of the six counties in the district for the 271 enumerators who will collect the data for the government.

Harper said the enumerators, tentatively named by him, were selected from applications sent to the district census office.

The preference was given applicants for ability to fill in the application and to follow printed instructions, Harper said. He added that past experience also had been a deciding factor in selecting the personnel for the census.

The tests conducted here Monday will consist of schooling in the manner of asking questions and making out daily and weekly reports in connections with the quiz.

Workers will be taught the attitude the government considers proper in asking the many questions. They will be urged to be courteous and warned that any display of a "hard boiled" attitude will means their dismissal.

The 271 enumerators in the 17th district will be among the 120,000 throughout the nation who will launch the giant census taking task for Uncle Sam April 2.

They will be paid on the basis of four cents apiece for each adult listed and two cents additional for each infant. The census is expected to take two weeks in the city and a month in the rural districts.

Harper pointed out that the information enumerators will be required to obtain from individuals is required by an act of congress but that all information is held confidential by the census bureau and cannot be used for purposes of taxation, regulation or investigation.

DIES IN PLUNGE

Girl Pens Suicide Note, Then Leaps From Airplane.

SANTA ANA, Calif. — (AP) — Louise Drolet, 24, of Corona Del Mar, victim of a prolonged nervous breakdown, plunged 1,000 feet from an airplane's open cockpit. Authorities today said no inquest into her death would be held.

Miss Drolet drove to the airport yesterday, sat in her car for about an hour apparently steeling her nerve, and then purchased a ticket for a $1 airplane ride.

Pilot Joe Hager said that when they approached a thousand foot altitude he felt the plane lurch and saw Miss Drolet attempting to jump. He tried to grab her, he said, but she plunged off into space, her body landing on a hillside field near Newport Beach.

In her car, Airport Manager Floyd Martin found a note saying:

"Forgive me. I just couldn't bear it any longer. It takes courage to die, but it is cowardly to live an empty, ill life."

Jessel and Bride

Lois Andrews, 15, New York showgirl, is to become the bride of George Jessel, singer-comedian, and ex-husband of Norma Talmadge, one-time silent screen star, according to their mutual announcement. Lois became a page one personality some months ago when she engaged in an altercation in a night club with George White, musical comedy producer.

STUDIES SUIT AGAINST PASTOR

Court Takes Under Advisement Charge She 'Influenced' Woman to Get Deed.

Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston had under advisement today a case charging that Mrs. Iva Wallick, pastor of the Foursquare Gospel church, Mansfield, had "influenced" Mrs. Ida Streib, Mansfield, to deed her property at 196 East Third street to Mrs. Wallick.

The case, heard yesterday by Judge Huston, was brought by Charles and Rosa Bauer, who live at the East Third street address. They contended in their petition that Mrs. Streib, an aged woman, had promised them the property for making improvements on it and caring for her.

They contended further that Mrs. Wallick had inveigled Mrs. Streib to turn the property over to her despite the verbal agreement that was to have given them the house and lot. Mr. and Mrs. Bauer obtained a temporary injunction several weeks ago to restrain Mrs. Wallick from having them ejected from the property.

Mrs. Wallick, represented by Atty. Stuart H. Cramer, denied she had obtained the property for any reason than to "protect Mrs. Streib's interests."

She said there had been no attempt to wrongfully influence Mrs. Streib and that she was ready to re-convey the property to Mrs. Streib or to the Bauers if the court found that procedure to the "best advantage."

Attys. John C. O'Donnell and H. H. Schettler represented Mr. and Mrs. Bauer, while Atty. John F. Kramer was counsel for Mrs. Streib.

RULES ON DEATHS

Coroner Says Ex-Husband Killed Bride of 2 Days and Then Self.

PAINESVILLE — (INS) — Lake County Coroner James C. Powell today returned a verdict of murder and suicide in the fatal shooting of Mrs. Carmen E. Strong, 48, a bride of two days, and Harry F. Yohe, 49, a former suitor.

Yohe shot and killed Mrs. Strong in her home at Painesville yesterday and then turned the gun on himself. The bodies were found by the woman's stepson, Paul Strong, 11, who ran to the plant where his father was employed to tell of the tragedy.

It was reported that Irish Republican army prisoners at Dartmoor had [illegible] windows, [illegible] and them and locked them in a cell.

RUSSIAN FLAG RAISED OVER 'GHOST CITY'

Hanko, Lifeless and Foodless, Given Over to Reds; Snow Covers Battle Scars.

CUT PATH THROUGH ICE

Icebreakers Smash Channel To Permit Soviet Warships To Land Troops.

(By United Press)

HELSINKI, Finland—Russian troops landed in the lifeless, foodless city of Hanko today and raised the hammer and sickle flag over the bomb-battered town hall.

Commandeered Finnish icebreakers cleared a path through yard-thick snow from the gulf and Russian advance troops landed from them, to take for a naval base a city in which no people, and nothing which the people could carry away, were left.

A little after midnight a Finnish detachment had handed over the city to a Russian political commissar and an army colonel.

The troops landed, and marched through the city, in a dead silence under a heavy fall of snow which was hiding the scars the city had suffered in 3½ months of war.

The Red banner was hoisted over the town hall and on a water tower on the hill overlooking the city.

Under the Russo-Finnish peace treaty of March 12, Finland was forced to lease for 30 years, at a yearly rental of 8,000,000 marks ($144,000) the bustling port, in whose suburbs thousands of Finns had spent happy hours on seashore vacations.

Just off the coast this morning, hours after the occupation was to have been effected, Russian warships lay in the ice, bearing the occupation troops.

Reynaud Wins Backing of French Press.

PARIS — (INS) — After barely escaping quick death at the hands of a hostile chamber of deputies, the new government of Premier Paul Reynaud was hailed today in a surprising rush of support by influential sections of the French press.

Defying his critics, Reynaud moved swiftly to prepare France for a "zero hour"—said to be due within three weeks. The premier presided over the first meeting of his super war cabinet at the foreign office.

RENEWS CHARGE

NLRB Critics Claim Board's Again Conducting 'Lobby.'

WASHINGTON —(U.P.)—Rep. E. E. Cox (D., Ga.) bitter critic of New Deal labor policies, charged today that the National Labor Relations Board again is "lobbying" for larger appropriations from congress.

He warned the Democratic party, at the same time, that it cannot "well afford" to enter the coming national elections "under the necessity of defending this outfit."

New instances of NLRB "lobbying," he said have arisen in connection with the house appropriations committee's cutting the labor board funds for 1941 some $337,000 below President Roosevelt's budget estimates.

He charged that members of the house are being "contacted" by unnamed persons in an effort to get the chamber to restore the cut when the appropriation bill comes up for debate Monday.

SLOT WARNING

Liquor Chairman Serves Ultimatum of Hamilton Officials.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—Lowell C. Bodye, chairman of the state board of liquor control, warned today that he was "willing" to withhold permit funds from Hamilton if the city did not ban slot machines.

The Hamilton council refused this week to order the devises from the city. The supreme court has held that slot machines are gambling instruments.

It's Easter In the Sunday News-Journal, Too

MAYBE not the scent of the girl friend's corsage, nor all the smartness of the Easter parade, and maybe not the inspiring music of an anthem is in tomorrow's edition of the Sunday News-Journal. But there IS something of the holiday spirit. Just for instance—

Date For a Lovely Lady.

Lovely is the word for Miss Gladys Swarthout. There's probably no argument about it, but the picture presented tomorrow is guaranteed to prove that statement all over again. Accompanying the picture is a story by Jane Williams—with an aside on the talented singer's talented husband! and information regarding the 1940 Civic Music association drive which begins immediately after Miss Swarthout's concert here April 1.

How To Get Your Name In the Paper.

One way to do it is to drive a street car or bus for approximately four decades. Virgil A. Stanfield tells you about a Mansfielder who has been identified with street transportation in the city since the days of the [illegible] in tomorrow's Sunday [illegible] same [illegible] in the [illegible] he's now besides how to shift gears, [illegible] the [illegible] have on the cross wise, [illegible] and [illegible] of the old timers passengers gave on the cross wise.

They Carry Portfolios.

That's the way you recognize census enumerators: and Robert E. Rogers gives you an interview with Don Harper, district census director, who reveals how the census will be conducted.

It's Still Not Paved.

No, this has no reference to the resurfacing of West Fourth street; it's a yarn about "Tobacco Road," which comes to Mansfield April 9, and about the man who transcends obscenity to make "Jeeter Lester" one of the most notable stage characters of our time.

And More Besides.

In the series on Mansfield's industries you'll be taken on tour of the Tappan Stove company, the Perfect Rubber company, and the North American Knitting mills. . . . Comics for the kiddies, (adults like 'em, too) recipes for mother, latest dispatches on the Reds and the Indians for dad, and school news for the teen-agers . . . All these, [illegible] and [illegible] the total you find in the Easter Sunday edition at your doorstep tomorrow morning.

TOOTS AND CASPER

DON'T TELL ME YOU AND SOPHIE ARE HAVING A LITTLE TIFF.
YOU MAY CALL IT A LITTLE TIFF, MY BOY. BUT TO ME ITS A WORLD WAR.
Copr. 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved.
CASPER, I GET SO DISGUSTED WITH COLONEL HOOFER! WHEN HE ISN'T TALKING, HE'S EATING— AND WHEN HE ISN'T EATING, HE'S TALKING! FROM MORNING UNTIL NIGHT HIS JAWS ARE WORKING.
"THIS QUARRELIN' IS MORE'N A MAN CAN STAND.
A MAN? COLONEL, YOU AIN'T A MAN—— YOU'RE A MOUTH!
JIMMY MURPHY
CASPER, THIS QUARRELIN' WITH MY WIFE IS TELLING ON ME... I DON'T SEEM TO BE ABLE TO EAT MUCH ANY MORE. I'M LOSIN' WEIGHT FAST!
ARE YOU LOSING YOUR APPETITE, COLONEL HOOFER?
WELL, I EAT A HEAVY BREAKFAST, A GOOD LUNCH AND A BIG DINNER EVERY DAY, BUT——
Copr. 1940, King Features Syndicate, Inc., World rights reserved
BUT I CAN'T EAT MY AFTERNOON SNACKS AND SANDWICHES AT MIDNIGHT LIKE I USED TO!
JIMMY MURPHY
CASPER, IT DOESN'T PAY TO BE TOO PRACTICAL! THAT'S WHERE I MADE MY MISTAKE. WHEN I WAS SINGLE MY HOBBY WAS COLLECTING SILVERWARE, ALL OF WHICH I HAD ENGRAVED WITH MY INITIAL "H".
Copr. 1940 King Features Syndicate Inc., World rights reserved
3-20
I HAD TWO PROPOSALS OF MARRIAGE— ONE FROM EDGAR BLIMP... THE OTHER FROM COL. HOOFER— AND I CHOSE HOOFER BECAUSE HIS INITIAL "H" MATCHED THE LETTER ON ALL MY SILVERWARE....
BUT NOW TO HECK WITH SILVERWARE! I WANT ROMANCE— AND ON MY TRIP LAST YEAR— OH, IT'S THE HAPPIEST MEMORY OF MY LIFE.... HE WAS SO SUAVE. SO DAPPER— SO HANDSOME....
WHO WAS SO HANDSOME, SOPHIE?
HA! WOULDN'T YOU LIKE TO KNOW! ASK ME NO QUESTIONS AND I'LL TELL YOU NO LIES...
JIMMY MURPHY
SOPHIE EVIDENTLY HAD AN AFFAIR ON HER TRIP LAST YEAR, TOOTS! SHE STARTED TO TELL ABOUT IT AND THEN SHUT UP LIKE A CLAM!
Copr. 1940, King Features Syndicate Inc. World rights reserved
HELLO, SOPHIE.
TOOTSIE, I'M SO HAPPY TO SEE YOU! YOU HAVEN'T DROPPED IN TO SEE ME FOR SO LONG I THOUGHT YOU MUST BE MAD AT ME.
DARLING, TO THINK YOU CAME WAY OUT HERE JUST TO SEE ME.
YES, AND I THOUGHT MAYBE YOUD TELL ME THE LOW-DOWN ON THAT LITTLE AFFAIR OF YOURS WHILE I'M HERE.
JIMMY MURPHY
THAT AFFAIR I HAD ON MY TRIP LAST YEAR? IT WAS NOTHING, TOOTS! JUST A YARN I BUILT UP TO GET MY HUSBAND'S GOAT AND MAKE HIM JEALOUS.
Copr. 1940, King Features Syndicate Inc. World rights reserved
I HAD NO AFFAIR. ON THE TRAIN I SAW A MAN— OH, SO HANDSOME— I DON'T KNOW WHO HE WAS... HE GOT OFF AT THE NEXT STOP... I'VE NEVER SEEN HIM SINCE... WE NEVER SPOKE TO EACH OTHER, BUT I LIKED HIM AND I COULD SENSE HE LIKED ME
OH, FUDGE. I'M DISAPPOINTED—— I EXPECTED TO HEAR SOME REAL DIRT, BUT SOPHIE LET ME DOWN
JIMMY MURPHY
I FOUND THESE KEYS ON THE STREET A FEW DAYS AGO, SOPHIE.
I THINK I READ AN AD IN THE LOST AND FOUND COLUMN ABOUT KEYS. I'LL TAKE ANOTHER LOOK.
I'M IN LOVE WITH A MEMORY. THAT MAN I SAW ON THE TRAIN— SO SUAVE AND HANDSOME. I NEVER SAW HIM AGAIN— NEVER SPOKE TO HIM— DON'T KNOW WHO HE WAS— BUT HE WAS JUST MY TYPE... AND THE MORE I THINK OF HIM THE BETTER I LIKE HIM.
3-23
DID YOU PHONE THE GUY WHO'S ADVERTISING FOR THESE KEYS I FOUND, SOPHIE?
YES, COLONEL HOOFER, HE'S CALLING FOR THEM THIS MORNING.
Copr. 1940 King Features Syndicate Inc., World rights reserved
HE OUGHTA GIVE ME A COUPLE OF CIGARS FOR RETURNING THEM.
THAT MUST BE HIM AT THE DOOR NOW.
MY STARS! WHY, YOU'RE THE MAN I SAW ON THE TRAIN—
YOU FOUND THE KEYS I LOST——? BY JOVE, SO WE MEET AGAIN—

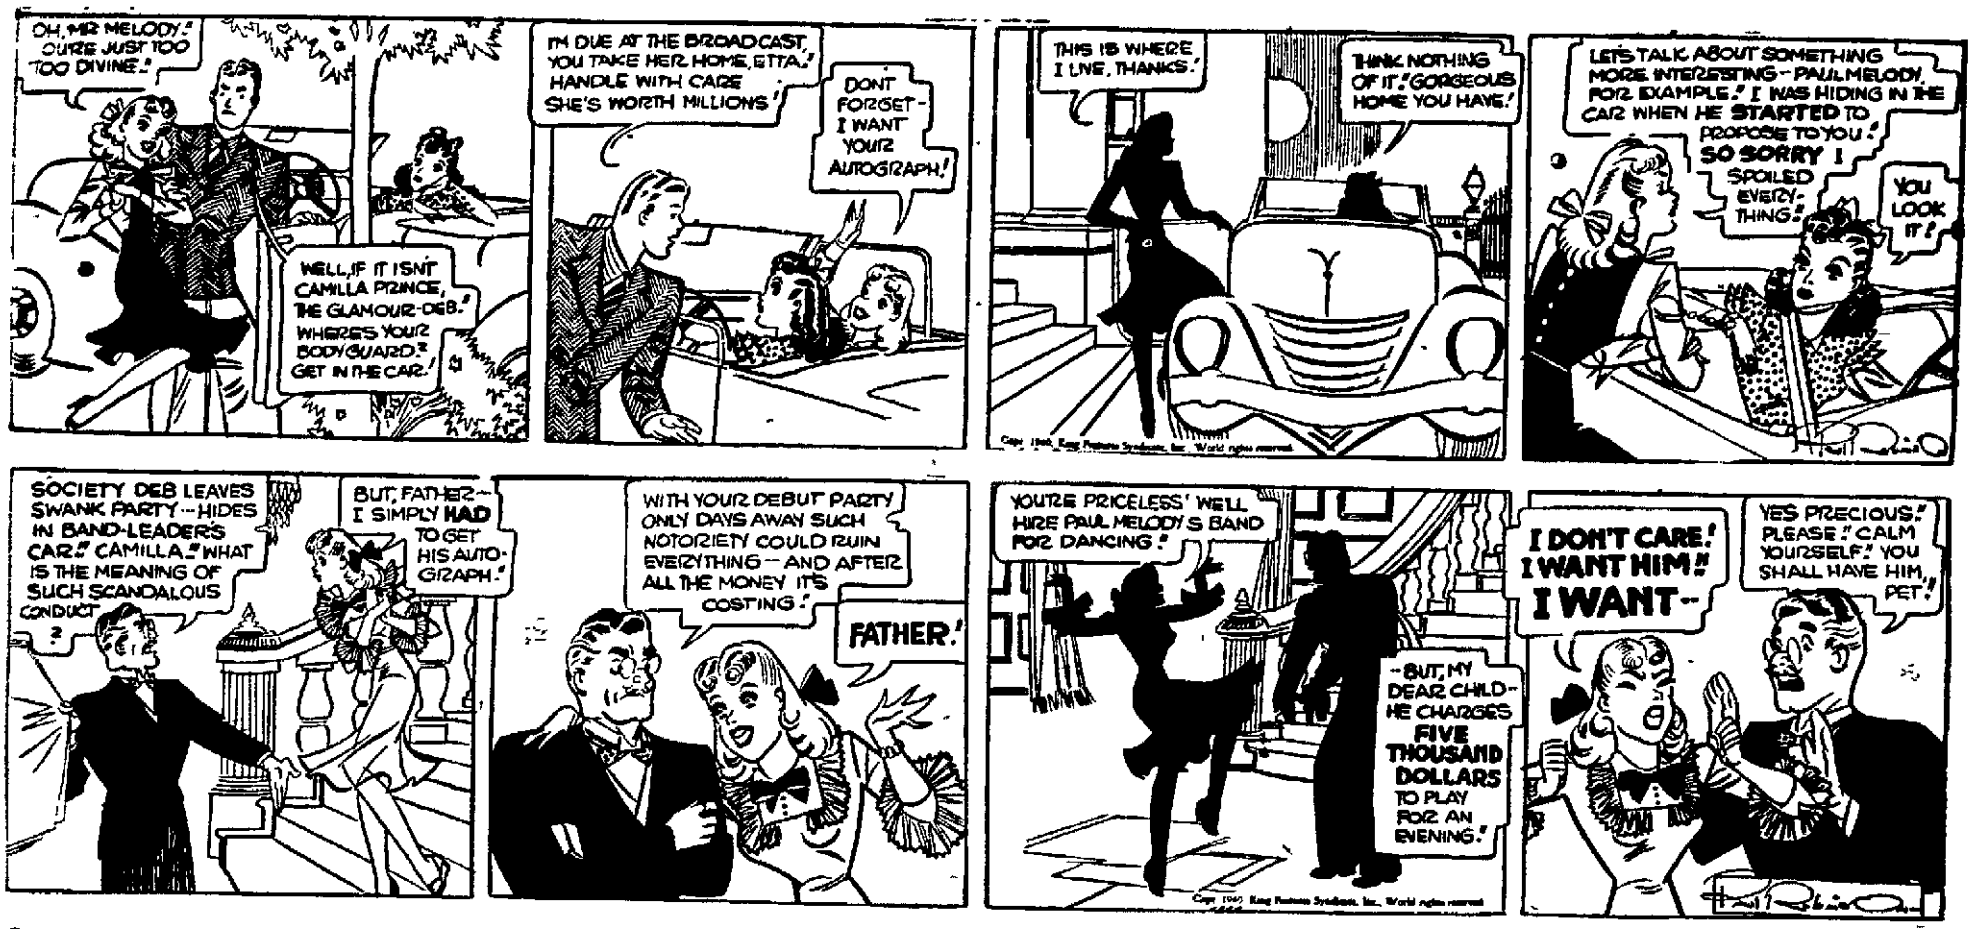
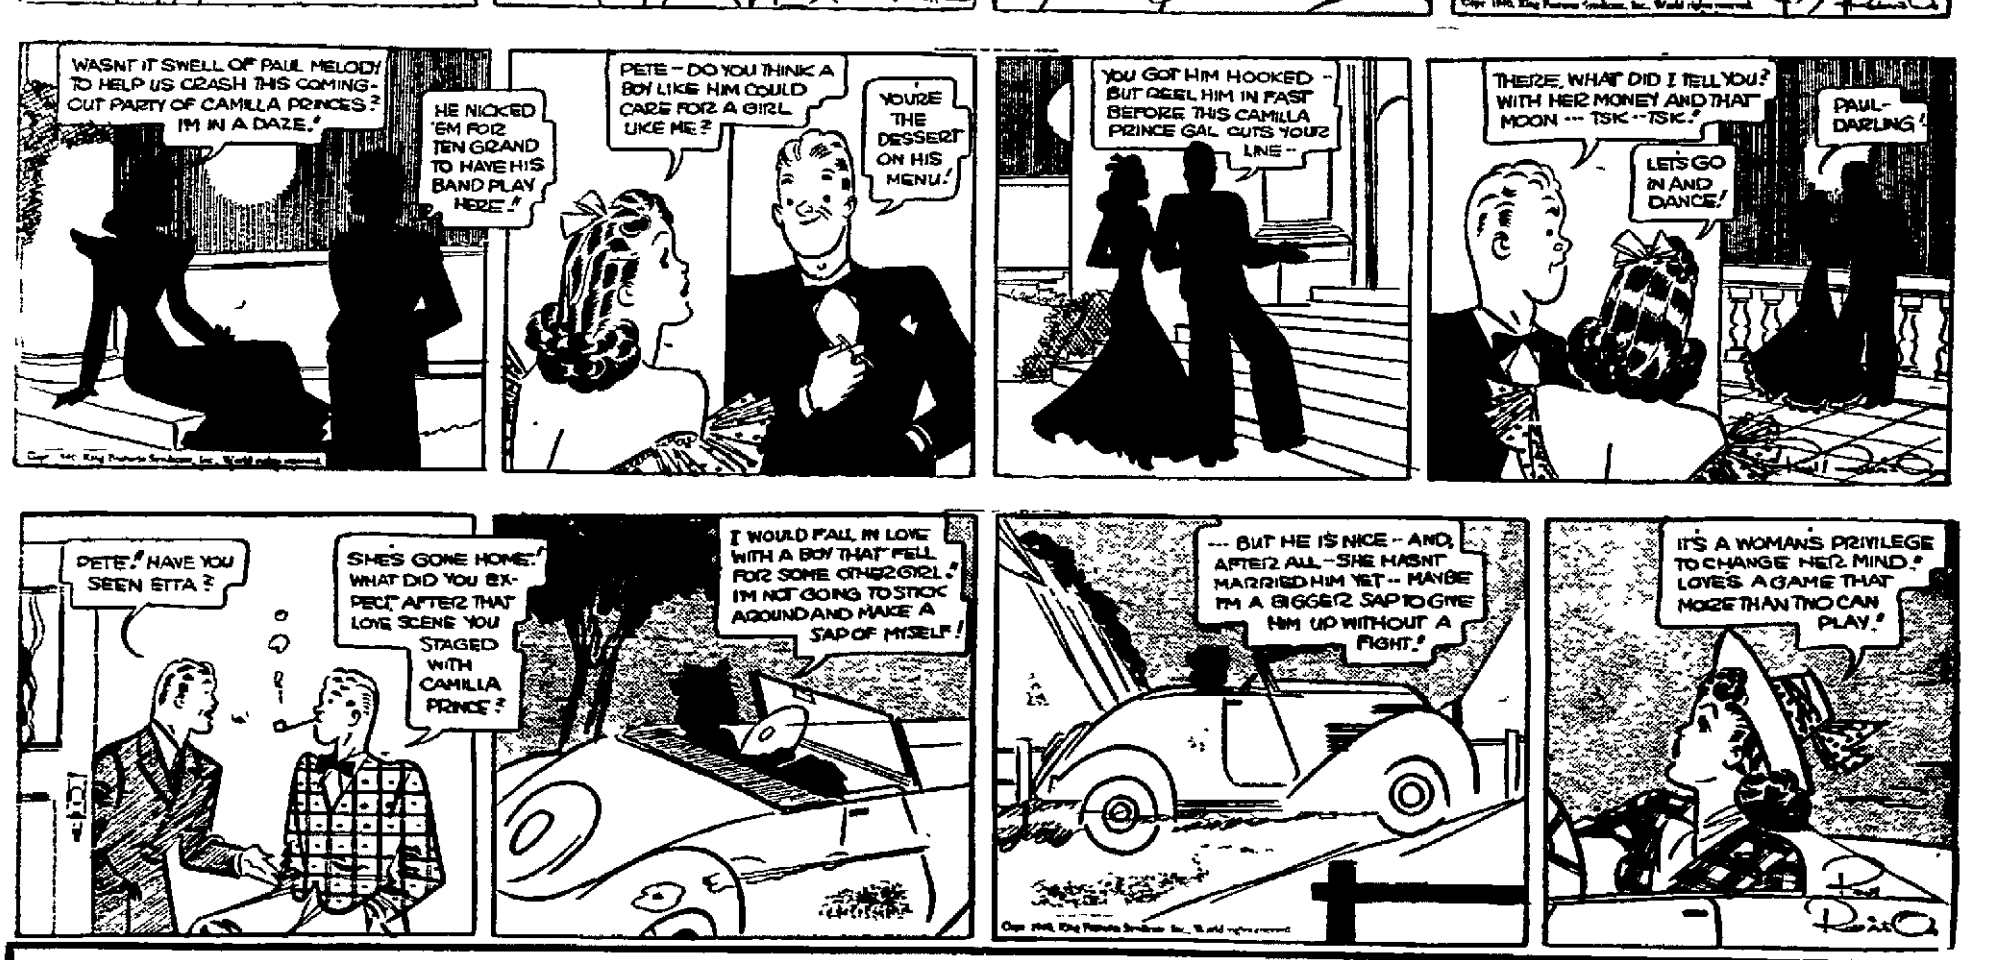
ETTA KETT



OH, MR MELODY! YOURE JUST TOO TOO DIVINE!
WELL, IF IT ISNT CAMILLA PRINCE, THE GLAMOUR-DEB! WHERES YOUR BODYGUARD? GET IN THE CAR!
IM DUE AT THE BROADCAST, YOU TAKE HER HOME, ETTA! HANDLE WITH CARE SHE'S WORTH MILLIONS!
DONT FORGET - I WANT YOUR AUTOGRAPH!
THIS IS WHERE I LIVE, THANKS!
THINK NOTHING OF IT! GORGEOUS HOME YOU HAVE!
LETS TALK ABOUT SOMETHING MORE INTERESTING - PAUL MELODY, FOR EXAMPLE! I WAS HIDING IN THE CAR WHEN HE STARTED TO PROPOSE TO YOU! SO SORRY I SPOILED EVERYTHING!
YOU LOOK IT!
SOCIETY DEB LEAVES SWANK PARTY -- HIDES IN BAND-LEADER'S CAR!" CAMILLA." WHAT IS THE MEANING OF SUCH SCANDALOUS CONDUCT?
BUT, FATHER - I SIMPLY HAD TO GET HIS AUTOGRAPH!
WITH YOUR DEBUT PARTY ONLY DAYS AWAY SUCH NOTORIETY COULD RUIN EVERYTHING - AND AFTER ALL THE MONEY IT'S COSTING!
FATHER!
YOU'RE PRICELESS! WE'LL HIRE PAUL MELODY'S BAND FOR DANCING!
-BUT, MY DEAR CHILD - HE CHARGES FIVE THOUSAND DOLLARS TO PLAY FOR AN EVENING!
I DON'T CARE! I WANT HIM!! I WANT--
YES PRECIOUS! PLEASE! CALM YOURSELF! YOU SHALL HAVE HIM, PET!

REMEMBER THAT CERTAIN LITTLE QUESTION I STARTED TO WHISPER IN YOUR EAR THE OTHER NIGHT? THAT'S UNFINISHED BUSINESS!
SEE YOU AFTER THE BROADCAST!
NEWS FLASH! I'VE SIGNED YOU AND THE BAND TO TOOT SWEET AT CAMILLA PRINCES COMING-OUT PARTY!
THAT LITTLE MAN TRAP!
SHE'S IN THE HIGHER BRACKETS, SON -- HOW ABOUT GETTING YOURSELF ENGAGED TO HER? AS YOUR PRESS AGENT - WHAT I COULD DO WITH THAT STORY!
HERE'S A BIGGER ONE I WOULDNT HAVE HER ON A BET!
SORRY, CHUM! I'VE GOT OTHER PLANS.
IF YA MEAN YOU'RE IN LOVE AGAIN, THAT'S NOT NEWS!
PAUL MELODY ASKED ME TO MEET HIM AFTER THE SHOW - I'VE GOT A HUNCH HE'LL PROPOSE! LIE STILL, MY HEART!
TAXI! TO THE BROADCASTING STATION - COME ON, SWEET MUSIC -- I'M DUE ON THE AIR!
--BUT WHAT ABOUT OUR LUNCH?
SORRY -- YOU'LL HAVE TO EAT ALONE - AFTER THE BROADCAST I'VE GOT TO DASH BACK TO THE THEATRE FOR THE EVENING PERFORMANCE!
I COULD HAVE BROUGHT YOU A SANDWICH TO EAT IN THE TAXI!
BUT -- PAUL - YOU HAD SOMETHING TO ASK ME!
TOMORROW I'LL BE BUSY PLAYING AT CAMILLA PRINCE'S DEBUT PARTY -- REMIND ME TO ASK YOU TO MARRY ME THE FIRST CHANCE I GET!



WASN'T IT SWELL OF PAUL MELODY TO HELP US CRASH THIS COMING-OUT PARTY OF CAMILLA PRINCES? I'M IN A DAZE!
HE NICKED 'EM FOR TEN GRAND TO HAVE HIS BAND PLAY HERE!
PETE - DO YOU THINK A BOY LIKE HIM COULD CARE FOR A GIRL LIKE ME?
YOU'RE THE DESSERT ON HIS MENU!
YOU GOT HIM HOOKED - BUT REEL HIM IN FAST BEFORE THIS CAMILLA PRINCE GAL CUTS YOUR LINE --
THERE, WHAT DID I TELL YOU? WITH HER MONEY AND THAT MOON --- TSK -- TSK!
LETS GO IN AND DANCE!
PAUL - DARLING!
PETE! HAVE YOU SEEN ETTA?
SHE'S GONE HOME! WHAT DID YOU EXPECT, AFTER THAT LOVE SCENE YOU STAGED WITH CAMILLA PRINCE?
I WOULD FALL IN LOVE WITH A BOY THAT FELL FOR SOME ONE'S GIRL! I'M NOT GOING TO STICK AROUND AND MAKE A SAP OF MYSELF!
--- BUT HE IS NICE -- AND, AFTER ALL - SHE HASN'T MARRIED HIM YET -- MAYBE I'M A BIGGER SAP TO GIVE HIM UP WITHOUT A FIGHT!
IT'S A WOMAN'S PRIVILEGE TO CHANGE HER MIND! LOVE'S A GAME THAT MORE THAN TWO CAN PLAY!

Check Arson In $175,000 Fire Near Portsmouth

THIRD BLAZE IN COMMUNITY STIRS ACTION

Farm Bureau Plant Destroyed, Other Buildings Saved by Shift In Wind.

(By United Press)

PORTSMOUTH — Officials began an investigation today to determine whether a fire which destroyed the plant of the Farm Bureau Cooperative association at nearby Lucasville, including a grain mill and other buildigs with a loss of $175,000, had been started by an incendiary.

It was the third large fire in the community in two weeks. Two buildings were destroyed and 20 saddle horses were burned to death in a fire at the Scioto county fairgrounds on March 12 at a loss of $25,000. Last week a fire at a gentral store caused damage estimated at $2,500.

Except for a fortunate shift of wind during the fire at the Farm Bureau plant last night probably the entire village would have burned, according to Portsmouth Fire Chief Robert S. Leedom.

Two employes of the association were injured in trying to check the blaze. Earl Coalgrove, 35, a miller for the farm organization, suffered severe burns. Earl Rottgen, 40, an engineer, collapsed and associates carried him from one of the burning buildings.

The units destroyed included the cobroom where the fire was discovered, office, mill, engine room, boiler rooms, store room and garage.

Some 400 farmers are members of the cooperative.

Use Water From Engines.

The plant was situated along the Norfolk and Western Railroad tracks. The railroad moved several tank cars to a siding to help fight the fire and water was pumped from the tenders of two locomotives into tanks of fire trucks.

The alarm was given by Carl Ackley and Bruce Payne, both of Portsmouth, who saw flames in the cobroom as they were en route home from a trip to Dayton.

The roof of a building owned by the Purdy Lumber company was damaged and volunteers for a time were kept busy gying to prevent the fire from spreading to other buildings.

Two Choirs Score In Presentation of 'Seven Last Words'

By KEN WOODMAN

Theodore Dubois' famous cantata "The Seven Last Words of Christ" was presented last night by the combined choirs of the First Congregational and First Presbyterian churches under the direction of Mrs. C. O. Anglin.

Approximately 300 persons heard the performance, given at the First Presbyterian church, and were generous in their praise of both the precise choral effects and the exceptional organ accompaniment, by Mrs. A. L. Twitchell. Her rendition of the difficult score was outstanding. Miss Louise Krause, who handled the piano score, did outstandingly well.

Miss Jane Weuthrick sang the soprano solos with fine clarity of tone and sound interpretation. Russel Tither and A. L. Derr were heard in the tenor and baritone solos.

DROPS OUT OF G. O. P. CONTEST

Ashland Woman Withdraws From Central Committee Race.

Mrs. Olive Deibler of Ashland today withdrew as a candidate for the Republican state central committee from the 17th district, leaving Mrs. Louise Adkins of Newark unopposed for re-election at the May primary.

While Mrs. Deibler's withdrawal eliminates contests for the 17th district committeewoman's posts in both parties, Earl A. McFarland, Mansfield, is opposed for re-election as Republican central committeeman by E. J. Scott of Mt. Vernon.

The committee candidates are nominated by petition and elected at the May 14 primary.

SMITH FUNERAL MONDAY

Funeral services for William B. Smith, 81, of 82 Bartley avenue, who died at General hospital Friday morning, will be held at the Finefrock funeral home at 1:30 p. m. Monday in charge of Rev. David N. Roller of the First Presbyterian church. Burial will be in Mansfield cemetery. The body is at the funeral home.

Up and Down THE STREET

The display case at the Public library contains an interesting exhibit of articles used in daily life in Scotland. These articles were collected by Robert and Douglas Black, 683 Arlington avenue. Some were gifts and some were purchased by the boys during their visit to Scotland during the Silver Jubilee year in 1935. Among the articles are a quilted tea cozy, a bit of Scotch heather from Loch Lomond, a collection of Scotch coins, a set of miniature bagpipes and a leather coin purse from Largs. Robert rode 120 miles on the back of a motorcycle to purchase the purse as an Easter gift for his mother, Mrs. Robert Black.

Although the temperature was down near zero, spring had come today to at least a small section of the courthouse lawn. A narrow strip of sod over the underground heating pipe on the south side of the courthouse was almost as green as in late April while all the other grass around it was a dead brown. A little heat, escaping from the pipe which leads from the powerhouse back of the jail, has kept snow melted over the section of lawn most of the winter.

Collecting newspapers from all over the world is one form of hobbyitis, and from John Holland, Wollaston, Mass., comes a request for a copy of The News-Journal for such a collection. It would be interesting, at that, to see how closely the newspapers of the world follow the same trends in news.

* * *

Because of her interest in various clubs and civic organizations Mrs. John W. Graham has become identified with specific activities in the minds of different groups of Mansfielders. But her activity in behalf of the "that" cookie sale, which recently went "over the top" seems to have given her a general identification to end all identifications. In a local store the other day the clerk asked her if she wanted her sales tax receipts. "If you please," said Mrs. Graham. "Oh! of course," said the salesgirl who was a stranger to her customer, "for the Girl Scouts."

STRICKEN FRIDAY

Guy C. Hagerman, 64, Dies In General Hospital.

Guy Cotter Hagerman, 64, of 230 West Third street, died Friday at General hospital after a brief illness.

Born Sept. 27, 1875, in Windsor, O., Mr. Hagerman was a former conductor on the City Railway system here and also a former city letter carrier.

He returned to Mansfield about a year ago after spending 25 years in Los Angeles, Georgia and Florida. He served with the United States Army during the Spanish American war, and had intended to return to California this spring.

He is survived by one brother, Carl Hagerman of Butler; three nieces, Mrs. Vergil Maglott of Butler, Mrs. Paul Weirick of Lucas, and Mrs. Ervin Remy of Mansfield, and a nephew, John Hagerman of Mansfield. The body was removed to the Wappner funeral home pending funeral arrangements.

DIES AT ASHLAND

ASHLAND—Found dead in his room here, Edward Ford, 47, was the victim of a heart attack, according to Dr. George Emery, coroner.

Ford, an employe of the Rybolt Heater company, lived in a rooming house on Cottage street. He was found dead at noon Friday by George Yoerns, who lives in the same building.

He is survived by his wife; his father, Howard Ford, of Wakeman; three children, at the Norwalk Children's home, and a sister, Ivalynn Brewster.

Funeral arrangements are still incomplete.

HOLD TOURNAMENTS

SHELBY — Boxing and ping pong tournaments will be held next week at Shelby high school for the students in the school gym and recreational room, athletic officials in charge disclosed today.

SEES NEW DEAL WIN ON TRADE

Harrison Makes Prediction on Eve of Opening Senate Debate on Proposal.

WASHINGTON—Chairman Pat Harrison, D., Miss., of the senate finance committee, predicted today that the administration will win its senate fight to extend the reciprocal trade program for another three years

The senate opens debate Monday on a house-approved resolution to continue the program beyond its June 12 expiration date in accordance with the request of President Roosevelt and Secretary of State Cordell Hull.

Harrison, floor manager of the proposal, conceded that the struggle would be "one of the hardest" the New Deal has faced in its seven year history, but added: "I am sure we will come out on top."

The major fight is expected to come when Chairman Key Pittman, D., Nev., of the senate foreign relations committee, offers his amendment to require senate ratification of amendments concluded under the program.

The proposal is opposed by administration leaders who contend that ratification would mark a return to "log-rolling" tariff days. They have conducted informal polls on the issue and obtained varying results but all of them indicate that the vote will be extremely close.

HOME HELD SUBSTANDARD IF ANY ONE OF NINE CONDITIONS EXIST

EDITOR'S NOTE—This is the last of a series of 12 articles on the work and findings of the Real Property Inventory, better known as the RPI, conducted by the WPA in Mansfield.

* * *

By HAROLD K. MANSFIELD
Director, Real Property Inventory

A dwelling unit is said to be substandard when any one or more of the following nine conditions exist: structure is in need of major repairs, structure is unfit for use, no private flush toilet, no private bathing unit, no running water, no installed heating, no electricity or gas for lighting, occupancy or more than one and one-half persons per room, and two or more families in a dwelling unit where the monthly rental is less than $30. Thus many homes may be in acceptable condition and yet be classed as substandard.

There is a total of 3490 substandard dwelling units, which is 27.9% of the total dwellings in Mansfield. The average the country over is 33½%. Of the 3490 substandard units in Mansfield, 1409 are owner-occupied, which is 22.0% of the total owner-occupied homes.

There are 1944 or 33.1% of the total tenant-occupied homes which are substandard. Of the vacant dwellings 137 or 39.8% of all vacant units are substandard.

Seventy-three and seven-tenths per cent or 2573 of the 3490 substandard dwellings did not have private bathing units. There were no private flush toilets in 1871 dwelling units or 53.6% of the total substandards. Major repairs were needed in 1413 units or 40.5% of the total. There was no running water in 744 units or 21.3% of the total. Three hundred and forty-nine of the units had more than an average of 1.51 persons per room. These percentages will total far in excess of 100% since many of the dwelling units were classified as substandard for several reasons, such as a unit with no running water would have neither private bath or toilet.

Reports on rental for the tenant-occupied substandard dwellings show that over half—55.4% or 1070—rent for $10—$20. Rent of $20—$30 accounts for 578 or 29.9% of the total, while 168 or 8.7% under $10. Only 117 or 6.0% rent for more than $30.

Income reports were obtained from 2619 family and non-family groups living in substandard dwelling units. Of this number 385 or 14.6% had a total group income of $600 to $800 per year. An income of $1000 to $1200 per year was received by 313 or 12.0% of the total. Over half of those reporting incomes received less than $1200 per year.

A current definition of housing is "an activity whose purpose or function it is to provide an adequate number of decent, safe and sanitary dwelling units to meet the needs, means, and if possible, the desires of the low income groups." This should be the aim for our city if we purpose to have a well rounded housing program.

3 ADMIT THEFTS

Youths Put on Probation In Stealing of Auto Parts.

Three Mansfield youths, all 19, had been placed on probation for three years today by Judge C. H. Huston in common pleas court after they pleaded guilty to the theft of auto parts from Ben's Auto Salvage company on Ashland road.

The trio, Clarence Norris, Norman McNeely, and Clifford Webb, won probation after pleading guilty to indictments for breaking and entering.

They were ordered to pay court costs and to report regularly to Harry Crouse, county probation officer.

Lawrence Fox, 30, of 20 Lily street, was returned to the Mansfield reformatory as a parole violator after pleading guilty to an indictment for grand larceny. He had served a reformatory term for breaking and entering. He was taken back to the reformatory yesterday by a state parole officer.

CONGRESS BLOC SEEKS TO CURB APPROPRIATION

Supporters Draft Plan to Halt Move In Committee At Session Monday.

(By International News Service)

WASHINGTON—A drive to abolish the National Youth Administration by eliminating its funds on a parliamentary point of order was disclosed in the house today. Supporters of the NYA, however, declared flatly that they would stop the move at a hearing before the rules committee Monday.

New Deal members, in fact, announced they were ready to launch a fight on the floor to boost NYA's appropriation $15,000,000 above the budgetary request back to the $100,000,000 the agency reecived for this fiscal year.

"I will sponsor an amendment to restore NYA funds, because we are advised if the reduced appropriation goes through 175,000 young men and women will be thrown out of work," Rep. Jed Johnson (D) Okla., declared.

Johnson said he and other NYA supporters had discovered the plan to wipe out NYA by a "trick move" on the floor, and declared the attempt would be forestalled.

The youth agency was created by an executive order, and since it was not established by congress, parliamentarians agreed that without rules committee action its appropriation could be withheld on the grounds that there was no authorization for it.

Opponents of the NYA, it was learned, planned to raise this point on the floor and have the entire appropriation eliminated. In order to circumvent this, a rule has been sought.

Rep. Cox, Ga., ranking Democrat on the rules committee, predicted the rule would be granted and the agency's $85,000,000 appropriation approved.

"They have to have a rule to sustain themselves against a point of order, and we'll probably give it to them," he said. "But at that I don't think it would be very difficult to get the rule denied if there was sufficient opposition. As it is we do expect some opposition."

ILLNESS FATAL

William Cleland Dies Today At Home In Tiro.

SHELBY—William Cleland, 83, life-long resident of Tiro, died early this morning at his home on High street following a lingering illness.

Born in Tiro April 20, 1857, Mr. Cleland had made his home in that community his entire life. He was a charter member of the Oddfellows lodge of Tiro and a member of the Tiro Lutheran church.

Surviving are his wife, Anna; two sons, Charles of Shelby and Virtue of Tiro; a step-son, Edgar Eckert of Shelby; a step-daughter, Mrs. Roy Snavely of Shelby, four grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Funeral services will be held at the United Brethren church in Tiro at 2:30 p. m. Monday with Rev. Victor Roebuck, pastor of the church, and Rev. Robert Miller of the Tiro Lutheran church, officiating. Burial will be made in Sandusky cemetery, southwest of Tiro.

STAGE PARTY, ROB 'GUESTS'

Gunmen Line Up 22 At Bar, Pour Drinks Then Steal $1,000.

WARREN, O.—(AP)—Three gunmen who wined their captives and then robbed them are being sought by Trumbull county authorities.

The three ordered 22 men and poured drinks for themselves and the victims.

Then they searched the 28, taking an estimated $1,000 in jewelry and cash. After being refreshed and robbed, the victims were taken to the basement and bound with clothes line.

A quantity of clothing also was taken from the living quarters of Eli Bonich, tavern owner, in the course of the three-hour "party."

OK'S TRANSFER

Court Authorizes Shiloh Officials to Shift $312 for Relief.

Officials of the village of Shiloh had been authorized today by Common Pleas Judge C. H. Huston to transfer $312 from the village light fund to the general fund to meet relief expenses.

The transfer had previously been authorized by the state tax commission. Application for the transfer was filed by the Shiloh mayor and council.

TALKS TO FARM BUREAU

SHELBY — John H. Catlett, Mansfield attorney, and Republican candidate for nomination for county representative, spoke last night at the meeting of the Jackson township farm bureau. Part of his talk was political in nature and part devoted to a discussion of "Wills."

GETS CONTRACT

Mansfield Contractor Awarded $75,000 Resurfacing Job.

John B. Hill, Mansfield contractor, today had been awarded a contract by the state highway department for resurfacing 3.64 miles of state route 314, known as the Centerburg-Johnsville-Shelby road, in Perry township, Morrow county.

The contract, awarded on Hill's low bid of $75,442, calls for grading, erecting drainage structures, and paving with surface treated stabilized materials. The contract price was $7,500 below the estimate. The state called for completion of the job by Oct. 15, 1940.

TREATED AFTER CRASH

Two Mt. Vernon youths were treated at General hospital early today for body lacerations, suffered when the car in which they were riding ran off the road at 2:30 a. m. on route 13 near Bellville. They were Earl Toteman, 26, and Paul Rockwell, 25. Both were released following treatment.

Not That It Matters

Why Should Capital Be Angry at Cromwell for His Pro-Ally Statement

—By JANE WILLIAMS

THE state department is embarrassed and senators and congressmen are riled because James Cromwell, "husband of the world's richest girl" and our minister to Canada, made an official speech in Toronto Tuesday which was in sharp violation of America's neutrality program and might conceivably embroil us in the European war.

He has been reprimanded but reprimands slide off him like water off a duck. Mr. Cromwell, you may recall, is the chap who lounged in a 145-room house and wrote a tome entitled "Defense of Capitalism" which advocated bringing back prosperity by inflation of currency, regimentation of citizens, and shifting the tax burden from the rich to the poor; and in an earlier booklet wrote that the "Constitution is a millstone around the neck of the American people." He is the gentleman of whom Hugh Johnson said in the News-Journal some time ago, "If Jimmy were a little better equipped he could acceptably sell peanuts."

* * *

BUT on the side of justice it should be said that Cromwell doesn't deserve a public reprimand for his speech in Toronto. He wasn't given the Canadian post because of his brains or because he had the training for it. Take a look at the qualities which earned the diplomatic post for him:

His wife, Doris Duke Cromwell gave $50,000 in cash to the New Deal campaign fund (both Cromwell and his wife are former Republicans); he has a million-dollar charm and personality which have won him two of the richest women in America (first wife was heiress to the Dodge millions); he is a cosmopolite who can call the famous head waiters of the world by their first names; his wife maintains magnificent homes all over the world and he has the ability and the money to entertain beautifully; and lastly he's very attractive and has a disarming smile.

Isn't that enough to make him a splendid representative at foreign capitals in this time of stress? To expect all of these PLUS discretion, good judgment and diplomacy, is just plain pig-headed.

* * *

NO LONGER can doctors smilingly assure expectant fathers that they've "never lost a father" during child birth. Out in Jerome, Ida., this week, James L. Showers died of a heart attack which his physician said was induced by the strain of becoming a father for the fifth time.

* * *

MANSFIELD firemen are behind the eight-ball on this new state law which demands that their hours on duty be reduced from 84 to 72 a week, which in the case of Mansfield means an additional $6,500 a year the first year and an increase each year thereafter.

Of the three methods suggested by Mayor Locke for complying with the law, the wage cut for present firemen seems to be least desirable. While it is true that firemen's unions throughout the state sponsored the new law, the fact remains that it was passed by the representatives which you and I—well, at least you—sent to the state assembly, and therefore we should meet the additional cost, even although it means increased taxes.

It is a part of democracy to abide by the laws which are passed by our duly elected representatives, whom we have every right to believe act in accordance with the interests of the majority of people.

* * *

SOMEWHERE in the summary of the week's news on the editorial page of today's News-Journal, you'll find a very small, inconspicuous paragraph which says that in 1939 more than 40,000 pneumonia victims were saved through the discovery and use of a new drug, sulfapyridine.

On the front page of every paper in America during the past week you saw eight column headlines on the fact that British bombs had been dropped over German ships and property.

For years men of science have struggled and labored over cures for the dread pneumonia, a disease which took 130,000 lives last year. They find a cure for one type of the disease which was effective in nine out of ten cases and through it save 40,000.

It isn't important news to save lives, but it's colossal news to destroy them. It doesn't make any more sense to us than it does to you. But there it is.

* * *

EVERY citizen has a right to his own opinion on these census questions that infringe on personaly, liberty and rights, and should act accordingly. But one amazing fact has developed in connection with this turmoil. There actually are native born Americans who subscribe to that cornerstone of Naziism and Communism — that "the government should know everything about you. You have no right to keep anything from your government."

Analyze that. The government is made up of all the people, therefore you have no right, as an individual to keep anything private from all of the people, nor the leaders at the head of the government. It is on such philosophy that totalitarian states and dictatorships are built.

These few people who advocate such a philosophy are largely political pap-suckers and stooges who would sacrifice the American way of living at the feet of political idols—and they hide behind a mask of patriotism.

Unfortunately, Mr. Dies and his committee can't reach this type of menace.

Hollywood Speaks---

—By ROBBIN COONS

HOLLYWOOD—If there's a more sensible starlet in pictures than Brenda Joyce, I've yet to meet her.

Blond Brenda, 21, has been in pictures almost a year now, and she still has no chinchilla ideas. She still drives the inexpensive yellow car (1936 model). She budgets herself on $35 a week, and puts what's left of her salary away. She says there isn't too much left, at that.

She is treating her job in pictures as she would any other job—except that she knows pictures are more uncertain than the average.

Since last July, when she was discovered for "The Rains Came," Brenda has had leads in three important pictures, is now on "Maryland," her fourth, and is set after that for "Brigham Young."

Many a starlet considers herself established after one small role—but not Brenda. In her poised, wholesome way, she prefers to remain a skeptic. She has heard enough stories of "discoveries" and of stars who thought the dance would never end. . . .

* * *

Brenda has a mother, too, who is rare. Mrs. Rosalie Leabo is house mother for Beta Theta Pi fraternity house at Westminster College in Fulton, Mo. That's where she was when Betty Leabo went into pictures, and that's where she has remained.

Ninety-nine out of 100 mammas, in such circumstances, would have packed up and caught the first train to Hollywood. Not Mrs. Leabo. She's coming on a visit again this summer. Meanwhile, she likes her job and she wants Brenda to get well settled in hers before they discuss other plans.

Dave Dreyer, the RKO music department head, holds to the theory that there's no such thing as dated music or a "corny" melody. The arrangements, says he, may be trite or hackneyed but the basic timelessness of melodies is demonstrated by the number of old favorites in current hit ratings.

Dreyer is taking part in what RKO hopes and expects will be a resurgence of popularity for the 1919 hit song "Alice Blue Gown" as presented in the Anna Neagle film "Irene."

In this picture they've done a Technicolor sequence to present it as sung "straight and sweet" by Miss Neagle, and then they've shown the song's rise to popularity around the world—in Hawaii, the Orient, Europe, and finally in Harlem, where it comes out as swing.

"See?" says Dreyer, after tearing through the swing arrangement on his piano. "There's nothing dated about it. It's a good song and it will always be good."

He got no argument here.

The year's academy award fracas was a triumph for "Wind" and (as usual) for wind. For me the high spot was Hattie McDaniel's speech of acceptance for the first award ever bestowed by this assemblage upon one of her race.

Good, fat Hattie made a pretty, formal little speech, in a voice that could scarcely conceal the tears that were on their way. She stepped from the platform, and cried all the way to her table.

Joy of Resurrection Rings Out In Easter Services Tomorrow

Churches to Commemorate Christ's Triumph Over Death With Special Rites, Music and Programs.

In a sharp contrast from yesterday's solemn Good Friday church services when the story of Christ's crucifixion was retold, Mansfield churches tomorrow will join in a joyful celebration of Easter and the anniversary of the resurrection.

"He Is Risen" will be the theme of the day's joyous and triumphant music and the messages of pastors.

Sunrise services, suggestive of the beginning of a new life, will open the day's worship. Easter music has been arranged for all of the churches and many will have special program by children of the beginners, junior and primary departments.

Holy Communion, the symbol of the Last Supper, will be held at many of the churches, while a number of them will hold baptismal rites and receptions for new members.

At least eight churches will hold sunrise services while the annual Sunrise service of Mansfield Commandery, No. 21, Knights Templar, will be conducted at 6:30 a. m. at the First United Presbyterian church. Other early services are at St. John's Evangelical and St. Mark's Lutheran churches at 6 a. m., and at the First Lutheran, South Main Evangelical, Mayflower Congregational, Grace Episcopal, and First Methodist churches at 6:30 a. m.

Easter services will open at 5 a. m. at St. Peter's Catholic church. Other masses tomorrow will be at 6:30, 8, 9:30 and 11 a. m. The 11 o'clock service will be a solemn mass.

At the reformatory, Rev. Martin W. Wappner, the chaplain, will preach on "A Three Fold Triumph" at the Easter services for inmates.

St. Mark's Lutheran.

Two services, one at 6 a. m. and one at 10:30 a. m., will mark the observance of Easter tomorrow at St. Mark's Lutheran church.

Rev. J. E. Marshal, pastor, will speak on the subject, "The Empty Tomb." The choir will sing "Now Is Christ Risen" by Wilson, and Miss Dorothy Henry wil sing "In the Garden" as a solo.

Sacrament of the Lord's Supper and sacrament of baptism will be observed during the 10:30 a. m. service. Rev. Marshall will speak on "The Triumph of Easter." The choir will sing "On The First Day of the Week," and Raymond Dent will present "The Resurrection" as a solo.

Tuesday evening the St. Mark's Missionary society will be hosts to the society from St. Paul's church at a covered dish supper and devotional meeting. Mrs. Martin Wappner will give a book review.

Park Avenue Baptist.

The Park Avenue Baptist church will observe Easter during a service of worship at 10:30 a. m. to be featured by the baptism of children.

The senior and junior choirs will combine to present Christiansen's "Beautiful Saviour," and the senior choir, directed by Lawrence S. Frank, minister of music, will sing "Happy and Blest Are They" by Mendelssohn. A quartet comprised of Mrs. Lawrence Whisler, Mrs. Lawrence Frank, Paul Seifert and Frederick Jackson will sing "O Divine Redeemer" by Gounod. Rev. Hayes M. Braker, pastor, will deliver the sermon.

A discussion on "Recreational Life" will feature a meeting of the Tri-C young peoples' groups at 6:30 p. m. tomorrow. A meeting of the Charles H. Huston class will be held at the church at 7:30 p. m. Wednesday.

Circle 2 will meet at 2 p. m. Friday at the home of Mrs. Lyle Terry, 35 Prospect St. Circle 3 will meet Friday for a covered-dish dinner at 1 p. m. at the home of Mrs. Floyd Bellnap, 2 Park Drive.

The regular rehearsals of the junior and senior choirs will be postponed this coming week.

In connection with the 10:30 a. m. service of worship March 31 a Youth Speaks service will be conducted during which various young people of the church will speak.

Central Methodist.

The Senior high school A Cappella choir, directed by A. LeMoine Derr, will present a program of Easter music during a sunrise service at 6:45 a. m. tomorrow at the Central Methodist church.

Holy Communion will be administered during this service and Miss Virginia Jenkins will give an Easter story. Following the service breakfast will be served in the church parlors.

Rev. R. L. Foulke, pastor, will speak on "The Resurrection Gates Beautiful" during the morning service at 10:30. The choir will sing two anthems, "Angel, Roll the Rock Away" by Scott and "He Is Risen" by Simper. Miss Harriet Johnston will sing the offertory solo. Sunday school will be held at 9:15 a. m.

First Congregational.

A special Easter service for members of the First Congregational church school will be presented at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow.

A play, "The Seeing Heart" will be presented by a group of young people, while children of the beginners and primary departments will sing Easter songs. An offering for the work of the church committee for "China Relief" will be received during the service.

Rev. Peter Young, pastor, will speak on "Immortality" during the morning worship at 10:45. The choir, under the direction of A. LeMoine Derr, will sing "Easter Hymn" by Buck and "Sanctus" by Gounod. Derr will sing the "Fourth Word" from the "Seven Last Words" by Dubois as an offertory solo, and Miss Louise Krause, organist, will play "Easter Morning on Mt. Rubidoux" and "Easter Alleluia." Due to the Easter observance there will be no meeting of the Youth Fellowship Sunday evening.

Church activities scheduled next week are a dessert-bridge by the Social group at 1 p. m. Tuesday in the church, a pot-luck supper and party for members of the Youth Fellowship at 6:30 p. m. Wednesday, and a dinner meeting for the teachers and officers of the church school and religious education committee at the church at 6:30 p. m. Thursday.

Grace Episcopal.

Rev. B. B. Comer Lile, cannon missioner of the Episcopal Diocese of Ohio, will conduct Easter services tomorrow at the Grace Episcopal church.

The day's worship will open with a sunrise and Holy Communion service at 6:30 a. m., and the second will be the regular service with sermon and Holy Communion at 11 a. m. Music for the two services includes "Missa Parochiales" by Oldrózd, "Easter Intrait" by Macfarren, and the anthem, "This Joyful Easter Tide" with Robert Meyer, Paul Pfahler, George Porterfield and George Knackstedt singing the leading parts.

Public baptism will be held at the church beginning at 4:30 p. m. today in charge of Rev. Lile.

South Main Evangelical.

A sunrise service at 6:30 a. m. tomorrow, conducted by the Senior League, will mark the opening of the Easter observance at the South Main Street Evangelical church.

A baptismal service and reception of members will be held during the morning service of worship at 10:30. Rev. C. L. Kern, pastor, will speak on "Christ's Victories For Us."

A series of evangelistic services at the church will close at 7:30 p. m. with Rev. Kern speaking on "Saved or Unsaved."

St. Paul Lutheran.

Two services will be held Sunday morning at St. Paul Lutheran church in observance of Easter.

The annual Easter program by members of the Sunday school will be presented in the auditorium at 9:30 a. m. during the church school period, and will be made up of exercises, songs and a dramatization, "Near the Cross," by members of the junior, intermediate and senior departments. A committee comprised of Mrs. E. G. Pankow, chairman, Mrs. Stanley Blackstone, Miss Lillian Damlos, Mrs. William Hahn, Miss Katherine Miller and Mrs. M. R. Perkeybile is in charge of the program.

The principal Easter service will be at 10:30 a. m. when Holy Communion will be administered. Rev. Herman L. Gilbert, pastor, will speak on "How Shall We Keep the Feast?" The junior and senior choirs will sing antiphonally the 17th century choral, "Joy Dawned Again on Easter Day." The anthem, "Behold the Risen King" by Dressler, will be presented by the senior choir with Miss Estella Arras singing the soprano solo, and Ralph H. Beilstein playing the violin obbligato.

Tuesday members of the Missionary society will be guests of the society at St. Mark's Lutheran church for the annual covered dish supper and Mission study group at 6:30 p. m. The monthly meeting of the St. Paul society will be held at 2 p. m. Wednesday in the church parlors. Mrs. George Schuckmann will present the program, and Mrs. William Bolley and Miss Margaret Beilstein will act as hostesses.

The Thursday Nighters, young people of the church, will hold a farmer and farmerette party at the church Thursday evening, beginning with a covered dish supper at 6:30 p. m. Helen and Marguritte Boyer, Robert Rhodes and Glenn Schroff are in charge of arrangements.

St. John's Evangelical.

Easter will be observed at St. John's Evangelical church tomorrow during three special services, beginning with sunrise candlelight service at 6 a. m.

Holy Communion will be celebrated during this service and the pastor, Rev. Paul Saleste will have as his Easter message, "The Easter Proclamation." The choir, directed by John C. Klinger, will sing "Whom Seekest Thou" by Cox and "I Know That My Redeemer Liveth" by Handel-Warhurst. Mrs. Helen Heston, organist, will play "Easter Dawn" by Hudson and "Cristo Trionfonte" by Pietro Yon. "Chorus of the Angels" will be presented as the offertory.

An attendance goal of 907 has been set for the Sunday school Easter program at 9 a. m., prepared by the Junior Married Peoples class, taught by H. R. Fiedler. Supt. W. L. Miller of Mansfield public schools will be guest speaker for this service.

The junior choir, attired in their new vestments, and the Sunday school orchestra, directed by Albert Kraus, will present Easter numbers. Baptism of children will also be held during this service.

A German communion service will be held at 10:30 a. m. For this service Rev. Saleste will speak on "Easter Witnesses." Heading the post-Easter activities at the church will be the annual confirmation dinner at 6:30 p. m. Tuesday in honor of members of the 1940 confirmation class. The affair is being sponsored by the Junior Young People's society, and arrangements are in charge of Marjory Schmidt, president, and Miss Maryann Boebel and Conrad Diehm.

Mayflower Congregational.

A sunrise service at 6:30 a. m. conducted by the Christian Endeavor society, will open the Easter observance tomorrow at the Mayflower Congregational church.

During this service, a cantata, "Christ the Children's King," will be presented by seven girls of the society under the direction of Mrs. Albert Adams. In the cast are Mary Perman, Ruth Sawyer, Eva Dorner, Virginia Marian, Dorothy Hainer, Eunice Stough and Ruth Hammer. Etabel Hunter, Richard Henry, Dorothy Hainer and Helen Markley will conduct the sunrise service.

Baptism of children and reception of new members will be held during the second service at 10:15 a. m. Rev. L. E. Coffey will preach on the subject, "Triumphant Living."

Church of the Nazarene.

A Sunday school rally will be held at 9:30 a. m. tomorrow at the Church of the Nazarene, Reba avenue, as a part of that church's Easter observance. A pot of flowers will be given to the adult and an Easter basket will go to the child bringing the most visitors to the rally service.

A baptismal service for children will be conducted by the pastor, Rev. Lena Brandenburg during the service at 10:45 a. m. A communion service will follow the morning worship.

First Lutheran.

Three services of worship will be held tomorrow at the First Lutheran church as that congregation joins in the observance of Easter.

First of these will be a Holy Communion sunrise service at 6:30 a. m. Rev. O. S. Goerner, assistant pastor, will give a communion meditation on "Is Easter Essential." Holy Communion for only the 58 members of the 1940 confirmation class will be held during the second service at 9:45 a. m. the choir will sing "Hosanna to the Living God" as the anthem and Rev. Grover E. Swoyer, pastor, will preach on "The Thrill of the Resurrection."

The third service will be held at 7:30 p. m. with Rev. Goerner delivering the sermon on the subject, "The Resurrection." The choir will sing two anthems, "Breast the Wave, Christian" and "Abide With Me." A baptismal service for children wil be held at the church at 3 p. m.

Meetings of both the Intermediate and Senior Luther leagues are scheduled for 6:30 p. m. Sunday. A reception for new members taken into the church since last Easter will be held in the church at 7:30 p. m. Thursday. H. W. Arlin of the Westinghouse will be guest speaker and will show motion pictures of the 1939 New York World Fair. Earnest Workers will meet at 2 p. m. Monday in the parish house.

St. Matthew's Lutheran.

Holy Communion, baptism of children and reception of members will be held during the 10:30 a. m. Easter service at St. Matthew's Lutheran church.

The junior and senior choirs, marching in procession, will sing "The Happy Morn Is Come." The choir will sing the anthem, "Victory" with Mrs. Harry Meier as soloist. Other special numbers include a solo, "Open the Gates to the Temple" by Earl Adams, and "Hear Our Prayer" by Miss Doris Bush. Rev. Charles F. Sheriff, pastor, will speak on "The Message of Easter."

At 7:30 p. m. Rev. Sheriff will have as his subject, "Resurrection Rocks." Meetings of three church groups are scheduled for next week. The Martin Luther class convenes Tuesday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Miller. Westview boulevard, the Ladies Guild meets Thursday noon for luncheon. Atty. Leslie K. Wagner will be guest speaker. A meeting of the Amoma class will be held in the church parlors Tuesday evening.

First Christian.

The First Christian church will observe Easter during two services at 8 and 10:30 a. m. tomorrow.

The senior and junior choirs, directed by Mrs. H. H. Clingan and Mrs. Bruce Rogers will sing at both services, and Rev. B. F. Hagelbarger, pastor, will use the same theme, 'Life In the Light of Easter," at both services.

"This Glad Easter Day" will be sung by the junior choir, and the senior group will sing the anthem "Hallejuah Chorus" by Handel. A reception for new members will be held at both services.

The annual offering for home missions will be received during the Bible school hour at 9:30 a. m. Mrs. H. H. Clingan, organist, will play "The Resurrection Morn" as the prelude, 'Jesu, Joy of Man's Desiring" for the offertory, and "Jubilate Amen" as the postlude.

The annual Easter program of the Women's Missionary society will be held during a meeting of that group at 2 p. m. Tuesday at the church.

St. Luke's Lutheran.

Holy Communion will be administered during the 10:45 a. m. Easter service at St. Luke's Lutheran church.

Members of the confirmation class will receive their first communion and the pastor, Rev. Herbert S. Garnes, will speak on "Reactions of the Resurrection of Jesus." The choir, directed by Miss Florence MacDonald is to present, "Joy Dawned Again on Easter Day," and "They Have Taken Away My Lord."

As the prelude, S. K. Jorgensen, violinist, and Mrs. Frederic H. Cahall, organist, will play "Adoration," and for the postlude Mrs. Cahill will play "Easter Day."

"The Sepulcher: Triumph Over Death" will be the subject for the Sunday school hour at 9:30 a. m. A service of infant baptism will be held at the church at 3 p. m.

Church of the Brethren.

Reception of members and the annual service for the presentation and consecration of children will be held during the Easter service at 11 a. m. tomorrow at the Church of the Brethren in Lincoln Heights.

The pastor, Rev. Roland L. Showalter will preach on "The Gospel of Immortality." Miss Esther Lantz will be guest soloist and will sing "Leave It With Him" by Ellis. The junior choir, directed by Miss Pauline Miller, will sing the anthem "Come Sing With Exultation," with Miss Mary Miller presenting the soprano solo parts. The choir will sing "The Victory March" as the processional.

First Presbyterian.

The beginner's, primary and junior departments of the First Presbyterian church Sunday school will combine for an Easter program at 9:15 a. m. tomorrow.

The program will include the songs, "Easter Day," "Easter Time," and "Pussy Willow" by children of the beginner's department; a song, "God Is Love" by the primary department; a recitation "Springtime Ifs" by Roberta Ports, Peggy Carlisle, Margaret Cook, Nancy Longtin, Ann Shawber and Martha Shiplet; an anthem, "Alleluiah" by the junior choir; a dramatization "The Garden of Joseph" by the junior department; a violin solo, "Meditation" from "Thais" by W. F. McCartney, and "Crimson Blushes" played as a flute duet by Jeannette Werner and Lois Ohler. The Sunday school orchestra directed by J. Merton Holcombe will also take part in the service.

Rev. David N. Roller, pastor, will speak on "The Man Who Missed Easter" during the 10:30 a. m. service. The combined junior and senior choirs will sing "Joy Dawned Again on Easter Day," and the senior group sings "The Three Lilies" and "The Hallelujah Chorus" by Handel.

For the offertory Mrs. C. O. Anglin will present "The Redeemer Liveth." Mrs. A. L. Twitchell, organist, will play "Easter Morning on Mt. Rudidoux" and "Exultemus." Reception of members will be held during this service.

400 AT CHURCH LECTURE HERE

Christian Science Speaker Discusses 'Science of True Selfhood.'

"Christian Science: The Science of True Selfhood," was the subject of a lecture presented by Thomas E. Hurley, C.S.B., of Louisville, Ky., last evening at the Senior High school auditorium.

An audience of 400 heard the address which was sponsored by First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Mansfield. Hurley is a member of the Board of Lectureship of The Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass. He said in part:

"The divine demand, 'Work out your own salvation,' confronts each of us today, and the method prescribed and used by the Master is as available and as effective now as when he told his followers, 'Ye shall know the truth, and the truth shall make you free.' The truth about what? The truth about one's self—the Science of true selfhood. And from what is this truth to free us? Jesus did not say that to know the truth would free us merely in some particular respect, such as from sin, but that it would make us free—free in every respect—which means freedom not only from sin, but also from sickness, disease, death, lack, old age, unemployment, unhappiness, inharmony, and imperfection of every kind. And he proved this liberating power of Truth in his own ministry.

"According to his statement, "I have given you an example, that ye should do as I have done to you," Christ Jesus expected us to follow him. This means that it is possible to do so. Jesus marked out the way, and Christian Science shows us how to follow the Wayshower.

"An image and likeness, being the perfect reflection of its original, must be exactly like it in quality; hence man, in the image and likeness of God, perfectly reflects every quality of divine Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, and Love. For instance, as the image of perfect Mind, he reflects infinite intelligence, understanding, wisdom, ability, capability, capacity, and so on. He knows exactly as God knows, for he derives his every thought from God, divine Mind.

"God's thoughts, or ideas, express Him, and so are Godlike. Whatever does not express divine Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, and Love is not of God and so has no cause, no existence, no power, no reality. It has no presence in divine consciousness which, in our true being, you and I individually reflect—and there is no other real consciousness. The understanding that there is, in reality, no error in consciousness is the law of annihilation to the claim of error to presence in individual human consciousness. And when error's claim to presence in one's consciousness is destroyed, its claim to manifestation in his experience as disease, lack, inharmony, and so forth, vanishes. In brief, we remove the discordant effect from individual experience by dealing with and destroying its suppositional cause—the belief of wrong thinking claiming presence in individual human consciousness."

'Matter' Will Be Subject Sunday of Scientist Lesson.

"Matter" is the subject of the Lesson-Sermon which will be read in Church of Christ, Scientist, Sunday.

Mansfield News-Journal

AN INDEPENDENT NEWSPAPER

MANSFIELD, OHIO, SATURDAY, MARCH 23, 1940.

Drive carefully tomorrow—and notice the attractive appearance of those new license plates.

This should be a good year in the hat business—with so many in the ring and so many others needed to talk through.

It is estimated that Americans compose and copyright 800 songs a week—if you had any idea that optimism is dying out.

Sumner Welles' Futile Journey

ASIDE from giving him an opportunity to meet a number of prominent people, the special mission on which Sumner Welles, under secretary of state, was sent to Europe by President Roosevelt, appears to have been a futile trip.

Just what it was hoped to accomplish by such conversations as were carried on with leaders in the warring nations, and with Mussolini in Rome, is not entirely clear as the Allies obviously resent United States non-participation in the war and Hitler is plainly peeved by the quite evident American public sentiment against his policies.

While there is full justification for this country offering to do everything within its power to restore peace in Europe, and throughout the world, when the proper time comes for proffer of friendly service, present conditions and recent occurrences indicate that the war will increase in intensity, rather than diminish, before there can be any prospect of successful peace efforts.

All present indications are for more determined action by Great Britain and France, at sea and in the air, and it cannot be anticipated that there will be immediate diminution of Nazi Germany's similar onslaughts. Nor does it appear likely that the quiet which has marked the western front thus far will be permitted to continue through spring and summer.

Inclination of President Roosevelt and his administration to be overzealous in uninvited meddling in the affairs of Europe, has tended to temporarily divert attention from the urgent need of better direction of domestic matters, which have suffered much from neglect and incompetence.

Recognizing the futility of attempting to settle Europe's problems, or to end the present war, the American people have expressed earnest desire to maintain the neutrality of this country and to restore national prosperity insofar as possible under present disturbed world conditions.

With the return of Mr. Welles, and following his report of findings in Europe, it may be hoped that President Roosevelt and his associates will deem it advisable, for a time, to make home affairs their first concern.

America's Last Frontier

AMERICANS who insist that there is no longer any "frontier" in this country where jobless and propertyless citizens can get a new start may be overlooking something. Aside from business opportunities and the taking over of old land for redemption, there is new land. And it may be worth considering, even if it is rather far north.

Ellis C. Pershing, an educator who has been studying the climate and natural resources of Alaska, says that big territory is still a land of opportunity, for settlers who have special skills or are hardy and versatile enough to adapt themselves to conditions there.

The Matanuska Valley project has been successful, he reports, in raising crops and developing the necessary requirements of civilized life in an isolated community. Alaska is rich in resources of many kinds, especially fishing, farming, timbering and gold mining. Temperature ranges from 90 degrees above zero to 76 below, according to locality and season.

Perhaps if present-day Americans had the hardihood and versatility of the Finns, a considerable population could live and prosper up there.

Volunteers For Flood Relief

THE COAST GUARD has a fleet of more than 300 motor boats ready for rescue work in the Mississippi and Ohio river valleys if spring floods develop there on a serious scale. These are mostly privately owned boats, used normally for sport or pleasure. Their owners are part of the recently organized Coast Guard Reserve, said to number 1,000 or more members throughout the country.

Only 25 regular coast guard boats are kept in the area which the 300 volunteers will serve. In case of a flood disaster, more of the larger and stouter boats will be sent in by rail. But the fleet of motor boats will have much to do in such an emergency both before and after the others arrive.

There is a good deal of such volunteer service available in this country, and it is used to the full when needed. Americans are not regimented: few of them are drilled and dressed in uniform, but they know how to act on their own initiative and can take orders when necessary. The dictators have no monopoly on efficiency, and certainly none on the loyalty and service of private citizens.

Birthday 'Shower' Planned

ONE of the most interesting things to come out of Germany lately is Herman Goering's plan for Adolf Hitler's 51st birthday on April 20. Goering asks the German people to celebrate that event by presenting to the fuehrer "gifts of old metal." He will appreciate that, says Goering, more than anything else.

It is a sensible idea as Hitler appears to need iron, copper, brass and other metals in great quantities, for military use. The appeal is an implied confession that the British blockade is more successful than the Nazis have yet admitted. It may even be that the Big Push so long expected has been held up mainly for this reason.

Aspiring to Statehood

CUBA, according to a resolution adopted by its legislature, would like to have Puerto Rico become an independent republic. The president of the Puerto Rican senate replied at once that his people did not want independence. Statehood was their aim. That was shown in the last election in the island when a majority of voters expressed a wish to become a permanent part of the United States, not as a dependent possession, but as a responsible member state.

Hawaii has long wanted statehood. Lately Alaskans have begun to ask whether they wouldn't get along better as a state than a territory.

It may be some time before these possessions attain statehood, but this will probably be the eventual outcome.

One-half of the world doesn't know how the other half lives—or why.

Man About Manhattan

—By GEORGE TUCKER

NEW YORK—I believe that we are inextricably linked with the stars, and if a man is supposed to be at a certain place at an appointed time, he will be there, and nothing he may say or do will make the slightest difference.

Last night, for instance. The theater was over. The big side doors had disgorged their crowds, and the cleaners were already mopping the floors. I walked up 45th street and turned into Broadway, pausing briefly to chat with Shoestring Jennie, a drudge I know who has peddled chewing gum and razor blades to theater crowds for 20 years.

I crossed Times Square to the Seventh Avenue side, the rain driving me deeper into my coat, and moved on past the Bird in Hand, past Sloppy Joe's, on past Roxy's and almost to 51st Street where I intended to turn east and seek out the office. I hadn't been there in a couple of days and I knew the desk must be in an awful fix.

* * *

BUT I turned instead into a hotel because it was raining, and I was hungry, and went downstairs where a great mob of people were having a time, and I ate a big supper of a lot of things that complemented a fine filet mignon. Then I asked for the check.

The waiter shook his head. "There is no check, monsieur," he said.

"It is the first time in my long and spotty career that a New York hotel has refused cash money," I told him. "You had better check with the head waiter again because I do not wish to be nabbed walking out of here and held up to this crowd as a check dodger."

Not that the hotel, or any hotel, would needlessly embarrass a guest, out . . .

"See," cried the waiter, hurrying back with an accomplice, "there is no check. Francois, tell this gentleman he is Monsieur Bernie's guest tonight."

So that was it. Ben Bernie was giving a party, and I had crashed it. Well, that is not exactly setting a precedent on Broadway. I sent a vague wave in the direction of the stand, and went out.

Outside the rain was still driving viciously. It seemed almost as if nature were trying to enfilade the passers-by with a crossfire of her own.

Back at the office the desk was an untidy heap, as I knew it would be, piled high with letters, old press releases, all of yesterday's useless and dead newspapers. From the typewriter this note protruded:

* * *

"GREETINGS and salutations. My good friend, Alfred Lewis, manager of The Taft, has very graciously offered me ye whole Grill in order to invite my personal friends as well as his, as his and my guests (deah, deah) for tomorrow night.

"We aim to have some supper, a little dancin', and your favorite drinks at this informal party; so won't you set aside tomorrow night from 11 until—?????

"I don't like to ask you to R. S. V. P., but Al says the Chef must know . . . so won't you drop this enclosed card in your nearest mailbox, and we will be all set for a swell evening.

"Love and kisses. Ben."

You see? It's just as I say. We haven't anything to do with these things. They're fixed, preordained, and if a man's supposed to be at a certain place at an appointed time, he'll be there, and nothing he may say or do will make the slightest difference.

Looking Back

TWENTY YEARS AGO TODAY

Tuesday, March 23, 1920.

Gideon E. Hoover, 72, pioneer resident of Mifflin township, died.

Labor Board and Bill of Rights

By HARLEY L. LUTZ,
Professor of Public Finance,
Princeton University.

PRESS reports of a recent decision by the National Labor Relations Board emphasize, even more strongly than anything that has yet appeared concerning that board and its methods, the necessity of clarifying the law and of terminating a situation in which the board has established itself as prosecutor, judge, jury and executioner.

The decision in question is reported to contain a declaration that freedom of speech is a qualified and not an absolute right. It was rendered in the case of a pamphlet issued by the Somerville, Massachusetts, branch of the Ford Motor company.

It is true that certain limited restrictions have been imposed on the freedom of speech. One may not be grossly obscene in public speech, except on the stage, where obscenity is accepted as a medium of alleged artistic expression.

One may not openly advocate the overthrow of the government, except at a communist meeting, where the protection of the First amendment would be invoked. The National Labor Board did not object to the pamphlet entitled "Ford Gives Viewpoint on Labor" on either of these grounds.

It said that the pamphlet contained statements which "disparage or criticise" labor organizations. Such statements were deemed to be a form of coercion, and thus a violation of the Wagner Act which forbids the employer to interfere with or coerce the employees in the exercise of their right to organize.

* * *

TWO issues are involved here. One is the unbalanced character of the Wagner Act, the other is the broad, fundamental issue of free speech. The above decision is further evidence of the intentional lopsidedness of the National Labor Act. The Board says that employers may not criticize labor organizations. It has never objected to the criticism or disparagement of employers by labor leaders and organizers.

Technically, the Act permits all manner of intimidation and coercion of employers by labor organizers, and any restraint upon their utterances with the freedom of speech. Here, as at so many points, the intentional bias of the law and of its administrator becomes clear.

The decision implies that any criticism or disparagement of a labor organization would be inaccurate, unfair, and therefore misleading. The Board's conclusion obviously is that all labor organizations and labor organizers are perfect, hence above and beyond criticism.

As a matter of fact, some of these organizations deserve the most searching criticism, just as some of their methods deserve complete disparagement. If any law declares the truth to be coercive, that law should be changed. If the Ford pamphlet did not tell the truth about labor, a libel suit is in order. It is time that the truth be told about some labor methods as well as about the methods of the National Labor Board.

* * *

THE broader issue of free speech is still more important. It remains to be seen if the Supreme Court will agree that the Wagner Act modified or repealed the First Amendment. The significant thing is that here is another attempt to undermine that amendment. It is an attempt which the workers themselves should be the first to repudiate, for the freedom of speech is a cornerstone of the Bill of Rights.

Labor might gain a temporary advantage if an employer's exercise of this basic civil right can be suppressed by administrative decree. Such suppression is a step toward destruction of the right, and labor will lose eventually if this and other civil rights are destroyed. The status of labor in Germany, where there is no charter of civil liberties, should be a sufficient warning to American labor to forgo any apparent advantages that cannot fairly be obtained under the Bill of Rights.

Listen, World!

The Soul Remembers.

—By ELSIE ROBINSON

SOMEWHERE I read a story about a little bird. The bird's kin had been wild things, their lives spent in gay, free flight over mountain tops and jungle and the restless, endless sea. But this little bird had spent its life in a cage, being born there; and always it had seen only the narrow limits and the commonplace happenings of the room in which it lived.

Yet twice every year a strange thing happened.

Outside, there would come a turning of the season. The sky would warm with spring; the bare limbs and the frozen clods would break into delicate green flame. Or, summer having passed suddenly, the gold would crumble into ash, and with the night there would be icy patter on the pane—and strange, wild cries among the trees—and a far roaring, as though in the darkness great wings passed.

When either of these occasions happened, the little bird would do the strange thing which I have mentioned. For five days it would sit huddled and twitching — its eyes closed, its wings fluttering—as though it, too, were set upon a journey. Yet never once had those wings known flight, or those eyes seen the glory of the sun or the wonder of the moon!

Yet something in that little bird remembered!

In spite of captivity, in spite of all the dullness of its lot—a dullness which must have drugged the tiny brain as it padded the body—the spirit the bird remembered freedom and flight! And through the dullness it heard those faint, mysterious calls which set its blood kin on their long, free trail.

Often I think of that story, as I go about among men and women. Caged things, so pitifully many of them! Caged more terribly than any bird could be. For they are imprisoned not only in the shabby limits of poverty and ill health, but so often by the vicious bars of their own natures — by degrading habits and impulses they have never learned to control.

Captives, poor things, as surely as though they were chained in dungeons! And doomed, often, to spend their lives in the shame and darkness and misery of their self-made hells.

Yet something in them is not chained, is not broken. Something in them remembers dreams. And almost you can see their spirit fluttering in answer to a call you cannot hear!

Never have I seen it fail. Not in one of them. Even the lowest of them—in jails or brothels or filthy dens. No matter how sodden the flesh, how numbed the brain, how bleared the eye—ALWAYS THE SOUL REMEMBERS.

Love — courage — wisdom — honor — pride. These are the great goals of a man's long, blundering flight; and never can he fall so low that sometimes—if only to the challenge of your faith in him—he will not remember that flight.

Think of that as you go among men and women; particularly in these days when so many of them live caged, with broken wings. Do not judge them by their cages, or their broken wings. Your spirit has not forgotten its journey. Neither have theirs. Be patient! Watch! Have faith!

THE SOUL REMEMBERS!

THE SOUL WILL FLY AGAIN!

Timely Editorial

The Price for Haircuts.

Judge John R. King is on solid ground both legally and from a practical standpoint in his ruling that the ordinance passed by city council fixing a minimum price for barber services is unconstitutional.

While appeal undoubtedly will be taken from his decision it is almost inevitable that the higher courts will confirm his common sense opinion that "you cannot legislate happiness and I can't see any relationship between the price for haircuts and the health and general welfare of the citizens of Columbus."

The decision leaves the way still open for any barber-shop operator to charge any price he sees fit to ask.

There is no real issue of health or sanitary standards. The state code governing barbers, provides for these and if it is not being enforced at present it should be.—Columbus Dispatch

Summary of Week's Happenings

—By ASSOCIATED PRESS

CARL A. HATCH, 50, is a soft-spoken, sharp-nosed, clean-living, pure-minded, wiry little man from New Mexico. His colleagues in the U. S. Senate call him "the Deacon."

Last Summer he persuaded congress to pass, and the president to sign, "an act to prevent pernicious political practices." It forbids electioneering by some 270,000 federal employes below the rank of policy-maker. They may attend political conventions only as spectators; they may wear party badges, but mayn't march in campaign parades.

This week, 58 to 28, the senate passed and sent to the house for possible pigeon-holing—a measure to extend the Hatch Act restrictions to an estimated 500,000 state employes paid wholly or in part from federal funds.

Bonus and Debt.

Backed solidly by the Republicans, and by about half the senate's Democratic majority, Deacon Hatch's new bill would also (1) bar contributions to political parties by government contractors, (2) limit political contributions by any individual in one year to $5,000 and (3) forbid state-federal employes' using their influence to obtain campaign contributions.

Its passage, after a two-week wrangle, broke a log-jam of legislation awaiting senate action. A vote two days later added some $200,000,000 to the house-cut agricultural appropriation, mainly for continuing "parity payments" to boost farm purchasing power toward the 1909-14 level.

That increase would wipe out two-thirds of the cuts previously made in the president's 1940-41 budget and thus raise the issue of new taxes, proposed by Mr. Roosevelt as an alternative to hiking the national debt limit. Both might be avoided, some congressmen thought by trimming later appropriation measures.

Silver and Census.

At midweek, as the house labor committee recommended enlarging the NLRB from three to five members, the senate banking and currency committee suggested that Treasury Secretary Morgenthau economize by buying no more foreign silver after present contracts run out. And the senate itself okayed a probe into wiretapping.

In congress and out, meantime, the census argument grew louder and funnier. New Hampshire's Senator Tobey, sponsor of a resolution to ask the census bureau to drop its income inquiries, had been accused by Mr. Roosevelt, last weekend, of inviting citizens to violate the law by refusing to answer those questions.

Tobey's reply — that congress never authorized such questions—was challenged by Commerce Secretary Hopkins, who backed his own judgment of what's legal by citing his two honorary law degrees to Tobey's one. Talk of census snooping is "foolish," Mrs. Roosevelt added, because people in small towns already know everything about their neighbors.

At Home

Definition of Peace.

In the world-wide broadcast last weekend with Queen Wilhelmina of Holland, President Roosevelt thus summed up his ideas on peace:

"It can not be a sound peace if small nations must live in fear of powerful neighbors.

"It can not be a moral peace if freedom from invasion is sold for tribute.

"It can not be an intelligent peace if it denies free passage to that knowledge of those ideals which permit men to find common ground.

"It can not be a righteous peace if worship of God is denied."

Overalls and Prejudices.

At least 70% of America's high school students are destined to become manual workers, says the American Youth Commission's director. Yet, he adds, most schools are preparing students "for either college or white collar vocations," due largely to an 'unreasonable American prejudice against wearing overalls."

So a dozen leading educators conferred in Washington this week on recommendations for changing secondary school education to provide "more realistic" training.

* * *

Cromwell Controversy.

James H. R. Cromwell, husband of tobacco-heiress Doris Duke, is new at his job as American minister to Canada. But several members of the U. S. Senate Foreign Relations Committee thought he should have known better than make a speech, as they heard he had done in Toronto this week, praising Allied war aims and criticizing Germany. Secretary Hull wired for a copy of the speech and then rebuked Cromwell for making it.

* * *

Local Olympics?

Whether Finland holds the 12th Olympiad this Summer—now that her war is over—isn't settled. But bald, bustling Avery Brundage, head of America's Olympic Committee, is going right ahead with plans to stage Olympic tryouts. A "home Olympics," he thinks, is the least America could do to ease the remorse of her athletes in case the games are not held.

* * *

Bomb or Bombast?

Twice-told tales of the Spanish civil war include one about a terrifically destructive bomb dropped on Barcelona. Scoffers say an ordinary bomb just happened to hit a truckload of TNT, others that German aviators flying for Gen. Franco were testing a new "aerial torpedo" powered with liquid oxygen.

A Baltimore inventor described such a bomb to members of the House and Senate naval and military committees in Washington last Monday, and invited them to a demonstration this coming week. Army and navy experts, sitting in, appeared skeptical but open-minded.

Abroad

Peek-a-Boo In Britain.

Under its new "spy price list," Great Britain will pay $4,000 for clues leading to the capture or sinking of German warships. It's expected this will especially excite Hollanders living on islands off the German coast. Netherlands courts already are trying two islanders charged with passing information to the Allies.

As a part of the "Don't Help The Enemy" drive Britain officials are frowning on "pen pal" clubs that supply lonely soldiers with names of girls who would be glad to correspond. Officials also are scrutinizing marriage license applications to block women spies from operating as British nationals.

A Russian Promise.

By last Sunday the Finns had cleared out of Viipuri, and by this Saturday were to be out of Hanko, as stipulated in their treaty with Russia. Meanwhile, they began fortifying their new border.

A clause in the treaty provides for a Russian railway link with the Swedish border. This alarmed Sweden until she got an assurance from Moscow that the U.S.S.R. had no further territorial ambitions in Scandinavia. But the Russians let it be known they would object to a Scandinavian defense pact.

Ohio Anecdotes

Eight Ohioans Became President.

THE birthplace of seven presidents, and the state of adoption of an eighth, is the Buckeye state's record to date.

Three were born virtually within sight of the Ohio river, and a fourth, William Henry Harrison by adoption, lived for many years on the Ohio river banks.

Although Harrison was born in Virginia, in 1773, before he was 21 he received a commission from George Washington which sent him into the Northwest Territory, out of which Ohio was carved.

Harrison partook actively in the Indian campaigns, and in 1798 was appointed secretary of the Northwest Territory. In 1800 he became governor of the western portion of the territory after its partitioning.

Quotes

Paul V. McNutt: "Our danger is that we may continue along the road of permitting the centralization of controls in business and finance until the nation is driven by poverty and despair to accept a dictator of its own."

Bruce Barton blames the SEC for stifling the money market: "Every economist knows that you can't put men to work unless you first put money to work."

People

Postman's Position.

That Postmaster General James A. Farley, chairman of the Democratic National Committee, considers himself a candidate for president was indicated last weekend when he orated to the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick:

"We must never permit the ideals of this republic to sink to a point where every American father and mother, regardless of race, color or creed, cannot look proudly into the cradle of their new-born babe and see a future president of the United States."

And any remaining question about his position was cleared up this week when the P.G. told reporters: "My name will be presented to the national convention at Chicago, and that's that."

Photogenic.

"This was in no sense a beauty contest," a Hollywood cameraman explained after 200 colleagues picked the "10 most photogenic personalities" outside filmdom. (Film folk weren't included because they're aided — sometimes vastly—by makeup and lighting.) Chosen were: Helen Wills Moody, Paul McNutt, Robert Millikan, Dorothy Thompson, Brenda Frazier, Edgar A. Guest, Mary Roberts Rinehart, Lou Gehrig, Mrs. Martin Johnson, Rex Beach.

Science

Tales About Teeth.

Five thousand dentists deserted their drills this week to attend a meeting of the American Dental Association in Baltimore, where they learned that:

1. They should warn women patients to remove makeup before being X-rayed, because minerals in cosmetics absorb rays so readily that burns often result.
2. George Washington had a set of wooden teeth that suited him fine till he got splinters in his gums. Then he swapped for a fancy ivory set, complete with springs.
3. Today's toothaches really started when prehistoric man topped biting his enemies and began using a club.

Habits: Mental, Physical.

One result of smoking is constriction of the blood vessels. This reaction may be purely psychological, a St. Louis doctor told the Federated Biological Societies in New Orleans last weekend. He described experiments in which it occurred when subjects puffed unlighted cigarets. Coffee drinkers, a Chicagoan reported, actually are addicts to caffeine. Without it, some develop violent headaches and are unable to work.

Pneumonia News.

Pneumonia killed 40,000 fewer Americans in 1939 than in 1938 when 130,000 died, records show. Doctors attribute this phenomenal drop to a drug called sulfapyridine, which is said to have cured nine out of every 10 patients to whom it was administered.

Sentenced: Matthew Murray, associate of Kansas City's "Boss" Tom Pendergast and former WPA administrator for Missouri, to two years in federal prison for income-tax evasion.

Died: Selma Lagerlof, Swedish Nobel-prize novelist; Samuel Untermyer, lawyer and crusader for Jewish rights.

NEXT EASTER TO BE DIFFERENT

Here's Consolation --- It'll Be 3 Weeks Later and Should Miss Near-Zero Weather.

been lost in obscurity of passing years and changing calendars, the Council of Christian Churches of Asia Minor met in 325 A. D and set the present system of computing the date by the moon The date has varied through the years from about this time in March to late in April.

To millions of Christians over the face of the earth Easter is the most important day in history, just as Good Friday is the greatest day of sorrow. It commemorates the Sunday more than 1900 years ago when Jesus of Nazareth arose from the grave.

The resurrection bore out a strange doctrine which He had been preaching about the countryside and in the cities of fishermen, shepherds, harlots and small trades people—a doctrine of life after death for mankind In the year of His death his followers and disciples were a mere handful Today they are numbered in millions.

Thousands of His followers in Mansfield will commemorate His resurrection tomorrow as they gather to worship in churches. Every congregation will have Easter services and the triumphal music of the resurrection will be heard from every choir loft.

There is a definite connection between Easter and the fashion parade which has come to be a part of it. Easter itself is a symbol of shedding the old and taking on new life with bright new raiment.

It is also a day when children in many countries look for the fabulous and mysterious rabbit who leaves brightly colored eggs in gay nests for good little boys and girls. It is a day for flowers, also another symbol of things that have been dead during the winter and have come into new life with the spring.

If the weather forecast for tomorrow is fulfilled, Mansfield's Easter parade will be largely a matter of wearing a winter coat over new attire, and possibly galoshes over toeless shoes

Weather will be "abnormally cold" in all states east of the Rocky Mountains and in this area the forecast is for "occasional snow flurries and continued cold today" and continued cold Sunday and Monday.

This morning thermometers stood at seven above zero, with flurries of snow and a sharp wind. This changed only a little at noon when the temperature was up to 18 degrees.

STUDENT PILOT HELD IN DEATH

Youth, 22, Accused of Murdering Cleveland Tavern Keeper.

CLEVELAND —(AP)— Clarence Rost, 22-year-old student airplane pilot, today faces arraignment on first-degree murder charges in the fatal beating of a tavern proprietor.

Rost, who wanted money to go west to seek a career in aviation, was returned from Los Angeles in the Jan. 29 slaying of George W. Blasie, 66.

Detective Ralph Kennedy quoted the youth as saying Blasie refused to lend him money to go to California, then threatened him with scissors Kennedy said Rost admitted beating Blasie on the head with a bottle and taking $19.50 belonging to the tavern proprietor.

HIT 'PAY DIRT'

Murder Ring Probers Trail Dutch Schultz Slayers.

NEW YORK — (UP) — Police struck the trail of the assassins of Dutch Schultz today, five years late.

The discovery this week of a Brooklyn gang murdering on a contract basis had pried the lid off the underworld. The squealing of the gang's trigger men was turning up new sensations every few hours and bogging down the police department with new clues to some 30 unsolved murders

All the big gangs in recent years, apparently, had used the services of the Brooklyn killers, whose main scene of operations was the picturesque summer colony of lakes and hills around Monticello, N. Y. That was its favorite dumping ground for bodies.

The slaying of Schultz in a New Jersey barroom in October, 1935, was brought in directly with news that a confidential alarm had been sent from Monticello to New York and Miami, Fla., authorities for the arrest of Jack Drucker, believed linked in the murder.

Police Take Role of Mediators and End Family Row

Capt. T. M. Bell and Lieut. Bruce Friday probably can be classed as the police department's chief mediators.

Called to an east side residence yesterday afternoon to settle a family dispute, the officers found a youth armed with a shotgun, a hole blasted through the living room floor and the head of the family intoxicated, they said. Several pieces of furniture were broken beyond repair.

According to the two officers, Mrs. Morton Smith, 116 Snyder street, told this story:

Her husband had come home intoxicated. A family argument started. Her husband started to break up the furniture and used abusive language. Her son, Morton, grabbed a loaded shotgun and fired it into the floor in order to settle the argument.

Capt. Bell and Lieut. Friday said they put Smith in bed, reprimanded the youth and brought the gun to headquarters after Mrs Smith refused to file charges against her husband

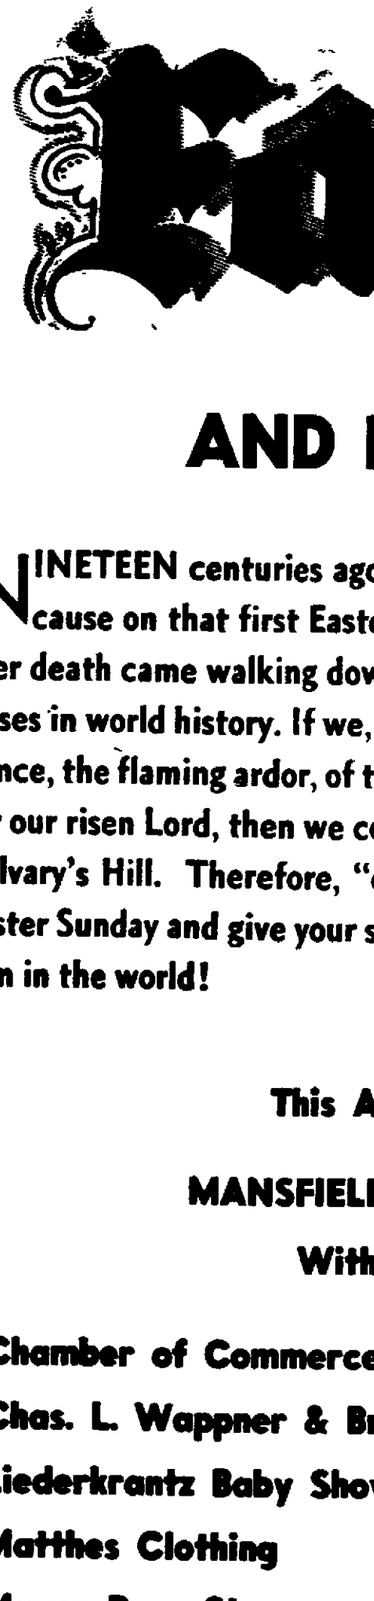
MANSFIELD
Churches Invite
YOU!
To Attend Church On



Easter

AND EVERY SUNDAY

NINETEEN centuries ago, in men's hearts there came to be fresh hope because on that first Easter Day, when hope had been despaired of, the victor over death came walking down the garden. In this year we face unprecedented crises in world history. If we, as Christians, could but capture the eager confidence, the flaming ardor, of those first disciples, could be ready to achieve or die for our risen Lord, then we could in truth be worthy of the sacrifice made on Calvary's Hill. Therefore, "of whatever name or sign," attend some Church Easter Sunday and give your support thereby to the most indispensable institution in the world!

HONOR PRESIDENT AT BANQUET TONIGHT

Bertha Mae Droz, Daughters of Union Veterans Head, Will Greet Friends at Reception Given By Tent at Leland.

ONE of Mansfield's most distinguished women will be feted tonight with a banquet and reception at the Mansfield-Leland hotel when Mrs. Bertha Mae Droz, national president, and Mrs. Esther M. Schooler, department president from Cincinnati, are guests of honor. The Mansfield Mary B. Mitchell Tent No. 40, Daughters of Union Veterans are in charge of the 6 o'clock affair which will be semi-formal.

Guests will include patriotic leaders in the D. of U. V. and in other organizations from Mansfield and throughout the state as well as members of the local tent.

Mrs. Droz, who has been in patriotic work for a number of years, has served as president of this tent, district and state president. She was elected to the national post last August. She has traveled some 7500 miles on official business for the organization which counts 50,000 members, and next month she will travel throughout the eastern seaboard states, Florida, and to California.

Mrs. Droz is the mother of two sons, David and William, and is a native of Mansfield. She was graduated from high school here, and has lived all her life in the city except for a few months spent in Wooster. She is also a member of the Daughters of America, Lady Garfield chapter, and of the Wooster chapter of Eastern Stars.

In September Mrs. Droz will conduct the national convention at Springfield, Ill., at which time her successor will be elected.

Nuptial Parade Launches Spring Social Affairs

The spring nuptial parade will get under way early this season with the arrival o f Easter Sunday. Tomorrow morning has been chosen by two young Mansfield women for their weddings. Miss Esther May Falk and Robert Dale Fry will wed before the altar of the South Main Evangelical church at 8:30 a. m. Sunday, and Miss Marjorie Louis Kerr and Perry Millikin will be married at the Calvary Lutheran church in Cleveland at 8 a. m.

A home wedding will be that of Miss Ruth Meister and Elmer Desterhaft. The ceremony will be performed at noon at the bride-elect's home on West Fourth street road.

In addition to weddings Easter Sunday will mark the beginning of the spring social season in the city. Many private and informal parties honoring visitors in the city will be events of Sunday afternoon and evening, while in the morning members of Beta Kappa Tau sorority will have a breakfast party for the rushees at the Southern hotel.

SERVICE PLANNED

St. Peter's Evangelical church of Washington township will hold Holy Communion services Sunday at 2 p. m. with Rev. Carl Grimm in charge.

National D. of U. V. Head

Mrs. Bertha Mae Droz, above, national president of the Daughters of Union Veterans is being feted tonight at 6 o'clock at a semi-formal banquet and reception at the Mansfield-Leland hotel. The affair is in charge of the Mansfield Mary B. Mitchell Tent No. 40.

HOROSCOPE

For Sunday, March 24.

SUNDAY'S horoscope fosters the affairs of church and state, education, philanthropy and social pleasures rather than workaday avocations. These may be pursued with enterprise and ambition, superiors collaborating. In private affairs social or sentimental correspondence should give happiness.

Those whose birthday it is are assured a year of steady advancement in the direction of well-aimed ambitions and with progress toward the goal of heart's desire. Superiors and influential persons are approachable and much may be gained by gracious correspondence. Shun impetuosity and extravagance.

A child born on this day may be fairly well-endowend for a successful and happy life. It may be gracious, friendly, refined and magananimous, probably excessively generous or extravagant. It may have literary or artistic talents of note.

For Monday, March 25.

MONDAY'S astrological forecast is a rather perplexing one, with certain factors for success and satisfaction and others conflicting and difficult. There may be obstacles, delays and disappointments, with some ruthless activities directed at breaking the static situations. There also may be some subtlety and connivance, but progress may be made.

Those whose birthday it is may look for some fair progress despite frustrations and perplexities. Subtle and peculiar situations may arise, calling for precaution and wise management. New plans and objectives may benefit.

A child born on this day may have many talents and creative abilities, expressed in the realm of art, literary or some other unusual cultural field.

If the youngsters spurn their hot cereal for breakfast try this: Sprinkle a little crisp (freshly heated) dry cereal, brown sugar and tiny speck of cinnamon on top of each steaming bowlful of cooked cereal. The novelty may appeal.

Quick Snacks For Drop-In Guests

By ALICE LYNN BARRY

Unexpected guests should bring out the best in a hostess, but sometimes an empty pantry shelf reflects a hollow welcome. Fortunately, it is mostly on holidays when the doorbell announces the drop-in friends, and a snack served with a smile takes the place of a more formal meal.

Consider soup, the canned variety. One can get dozens of tins even into a small pantry, and it would really take dozens to provide samples of all the flavorsome varieties of tinned soup ready for the home cook's dilemmas. She may serve her soup, as such, with a plateful of hot biscuits or buttered toast for accompaniment, or she may use soup as a delicious ingredient in a hearty dish.

Try Milk With It.

For the straight soup service, have you ever tried mixing milk with a canned vegetable soup, in place of the water suggested on the can's directions? Everyone knows that tomato bisque is evolved by adding milk to a tomato soup base. As an introduction to a club sandwich or rarebit snack, you'll find no more tasty soup than a can of chicken broth mixed with a can of clam bouillon.

For a more filling type of soup dish, try poaching an egg in cream of spinach or green pea soup. Use a cream of mushroom soup as it comes from the can, not thinned by extra milk or water, as a sauce for plain boiled spaghetti.

In the sweets department for unexpected guests, you can't go wrong with tinned plum pudding, and a pretty fine emergency dessert can be made of store fruit cake soaked with cooking sherry and served with a hard sauce.

Ice cream can nearly always be obtained by a neighborhood telephone call, and a little imagination turns it into a de luxe offering. Any sweet sauce—or almost any—makes a licking good sundae sauce.

Fairy Tales Being Eliminated

By Garry Cleveland Myers, Ph.D.

The great creative geniuses of the world were fed in early childhood on fi.tion, not fact. Their imagination was put on wings, not bound with chains. There were no "philosophers of education," when they were little children, to sell the baby's birthright (fairyland) for a mess of pottage (realism).

Without the elves, brownies and fairies, could there have been a Burns, Lamb, Coleridge, Dickens, Stevenson or Milne?

You know how Stevenson, when a mere baby, listened for hours upon hours as his nurse read to him wild tales of fancy. We have it from Milne, in his recent autobiography, that he was read to from Uncle Remus and Pilgrim's Progress before the age of four.

"Uncle Remus was read aloud to us by Papa, a chapter a night. . . . Papa also read The Pilgrim's Progress to us . . ."

Debt to Magazine.

Milne tells us that his success as a writer for children he owed chiefly to Aunt Judy's Magazine, whose pages presumably were not filled with facts but with fiction. To quote:

"I have mentioned Aunt Judy's Magazine. I hope that she meant something to some of my contemporaries, for she meant Heaven to us. We had all the bound volumes; but never knew, nor know now, whether the components were still in circulation. Was Mrs. Ewing Aunt Judy? Who were the other contributors? Any poor laurels which I have won as a writer for children I strip from my head and distribute apologetically, leaf by leaf, to those of them who have remained unknown. To us the volumes of Aunt Judy's Magazine were friends as familiar and well-loved as were (in this more practical age) the volumes of the Children's Encyclopaedia to my own child. Aunt Judy was not practical. She entranced us, but never told us how to make a tricycle."

Do you realize that in some of the outstanding universities of this continent, little children in the nursery school and kindergarten are given only facts and denied the fanciful; that parents are being told to read only of the real to their babies; that little children, under the guise of "modern psychology," are having their imaginations gagged and chained?

No Appeal to Fancies.

Have you observed that modern school books for young children no longer appeal to the child's creative fancies and that brownies, fairies, and animate animals have disappeared from them?

Remember this: No one yet has proved conclusively that folk lore and fairy tales not frightful are harmful to the personality of the child, if properly balanced with social play and use of tools. The time when your child should be fired with appeals to his imagination is before he enters school; and he should not have to feed thereafter wholly on the fare of realism—not if he is going to be happiest and learn most creatively.

If you desire to receive a selected list of books from which to read to the baby and young child, write me in care of this paper, enclosing a self-addressed envelope with a three-cent stamp on it.

Solving Parent Problems.

Q. Should a parent ever apologize to a child, say between three and 20?

A. Yes, indeed; and before the sun goes down on the wrong done to the child.

Q. What do you think of tap-dancing for the timid child?

A. Not much, except for the child who lacks normal balance or sense of rhythm.

Spring Arrives For Mansfield Garden Clubs

Low Temperatures Hit City, But Units Set First Dates.

A TEMPERATURE of 10 above zero this morning sounded pretty discouraging to would-be Easter paraders, but announcements received from a number of sources regarding the opening of the garden club season assure us that spring has come to the seed catalogues even though it appears to be a long way off in Mansfield. The newest organization to start here is the Buckeye Garden club calling a roll of younger Mansfield matrons.

The first post-organizational meeting of this group will be held with Mrs. Deming Lowrey, Edgewood road, on Friday of next week. The Astowela group will resume activities on the same date with Mrs. L. W. Birch and Mrs. M. E. Geipel, while the Town and Country Garden club will also get under way on Friday when members gather with Mrs. Wilmot Peirce, 796 Yale drive.

Mrs. H. G. Miller will open her home to members of the Cottage Garden club also on Friday with Mrs. C. C. Blair serving as associate. The opening meeting of the Johnny Appleseed club will be with Mrs. Henry Sanford on Sherman avenue, and the Mansfield Garden club will also meet next Friday but no hostess was announced.

Entertains With Party Celebrating Birthday

Susanne Warner, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Warner, 44 Glenwood boulevard, who will celebrate her fourth birthday tomorrow, was guest of honor this afternoon at a birthday party given by her mother. Easter color schemes and novelties were used as decorations, and Katharine Bushnell served as associate hostess. Individual birthday cakes were presented to the children.

Guests included John Donaldson, Bill and Lynn Schettler, Rhoda and Tommy Hoffman, Roger and Howard Smith, Virginia Parr, Janis and Ben Gray, Natalie Carr and Tommy Newcomb.

CLUB MEETS AT KING'S CORNERS

The Everthoughtful club members of King's Corners gathered at the home of Grace Black Maxwell, Thursday. The president, Catherine Barr, presided. Mrs. Anna Marie Kilgore and Mrs. Wilbur Hamilton were the associate hostesses. During the social hour, refreshments were served by Mrs. Maxwell and her helpers. The regular community meeting will be held on the evening of April 10.

Marriage Meddlers

Continuation of "Married Comrades"

"YOU HEAR, Harry?" my father said gravely when I had finished my faltering suggestion.

"Yes, and it's a darned good suggestion," Harry Underwood said quickly with admiration in his voice.

"Thank you, Daughter," he said with pride in his voice. "I knew I could count on your keen brain to think of something. And now, Harry, we must swing into action. You'll have to go to New York at once and bring Wilson and Blake back with you tonight, if possible; otherwise, at the earliest possible hour tomorrow morning."

"I'll get them tonight," Harry Underwood said with grim decision. "And while they're shaving and packing, I'll run over to my cache and get everything in the way of make-up I require. I'll put in some clothes of their size so if those of Mary and Noel don't fit, we can use them. But I'd like to take along a street gown and coat of Mary's and a suit of Noel's, for 'patterns' as it were."

"But Harry," his wife said quickly, "is it wise to let Noel and Mary in on this until the last possible minute, especially as Mary has that rehearsal before Philip Veritzen and the whole company tomorrow morning?"

I clenched my fists with the silent hope that this disturbing knowledge could be kept from Mary until after the rehearsal.

"No," my father said explosively, "they must know nothing until the last possible minute. But, Margaret, couldn't you smuggle some of their clothing to Harry without their knowledge?"

"Easily," I said. "Their fall and winter garments are in mothproof bags in the attic. I can get them out easily and give them to Harry, without either Mary or Noel suspecting anything. But I ought to do it right away. Mary is asleep now on the balcony and Noel is guarding her. This would be the best possible time for me to get the clothing."

"Then, if you will be so kind," my father said, and I rose instantly and walked to the door which Dicky held open for me—he had reached it before I did. He gave my arm an approving, affectionate squeeze as I went through it.

"Wait just a second," Lillian called after me, then she spoke to my father.

"Do you want me for anything more, Chief?" she asked.

"Not just now," he told her smiling. "I am going over some things with Harry, and then I am 'going into the silence' to think things out. Later, I shall want to talk to you."

"What about you, light of my life," she grinned at her big husband, "need me for anything special?"

"I always need you," he said gallantly, "but I shall be busy with the Chief for awhile."

"Then," Lillian decided, rising, "I'll go along with you, Madge, if you don't mind."

"I'd love to have you," I told her sincerely, and we went out of the door together, and then climbed the stairs to the capacious attic which was really a third story of the farm house. As I opened the big closet which held the mothproof bags containing winter clothing, Lillian suddenly spoke with exaggerated explosiveness.

"We ought to have known better than to come up here without something tied over our faces. That odor is deadly. Come back downstairs quickly, and get fixed up first."

She had me by the arm and rushed me to the door as she spoke. Once through it, she shot the heavy bolts home and sank down on the stairs in nervous reaction.

"Somebody in there," she whispered.

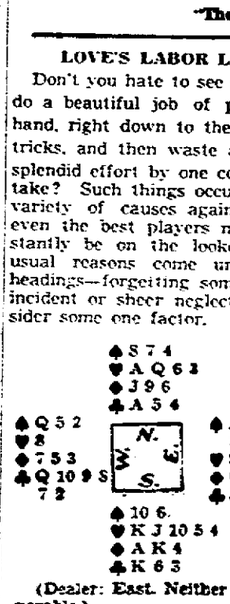
"The Authority on Authorities"

LOVE'S LABOR LOST

Don't you hate to see somebody do a beautiful job of playing a hand, right down to the last few tricks, and then waste all of his splendid effort by one costly mistake? Such things occur from a variety of causes against which even the best players must constantly be on the lookout. The usual reasons come under two headings—forgetting some earlier incident or sheer neglect to consider some one factor.



(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
1 ♠	2 ♥	Pass	3 ♥
Pass	4 ♥

East overlook his partner's top spade, cashed another and switched to the club J, which the declarer took with his K. Planning a neat strip play to prevent the loss of a trick each in the [illegible] declarer cashed all the trumps but [illegible] the jack of clubs to eliminate that suit, then cashed his top tricks in the minors, leaving himself one club, one diamond and one heart in his hand and the same lineup in dummy.

Then he led his club. West won it and had a diamond to return to East, setting the contract. Had South to that eleventh trick led his diamond to the J. East would have had to win it with the Q and would have had nothing left to return, no matter how he had discarded, but a diamond or spade. Declarer could have discarded a club then while he ruffed in the opposite hand.

The clue to this play was that East, who made an original bid of spades, had shown no high card strength in side suits as yet, and so must surely have the diamond Q.

CHAPTER XXVII

Star had not heard from Milton since she left his office but she had a presentiment that he would be coming to the house soon. As Nina's friend he would drop in occasionally and they would look at each other across a roomful of people. In a way it would be easier never to see him, yet Star knew she would not miss any chance of seeing that dear unhappy face. He would try to be casual and impersonal but sooner or later their eyes would meet and for that one stolen glance she would endure any amount of loneliness later.

But although she had expected him she did not think he would come without telephoning. It was a shock when that afternoon he suddenly appeared. Star was in the living-room repairing the disorder left from pre-luncheon cocktails. It was Mrs. Epperson's afternoon off and Nina and a group of women friends had gone away leaving the house to Star. She had taken her time, enjoying the quiet and freedom. Lunched in the kitchen, typed the last five pages of Nina's story and finally descended to the living-room to collect the glasses and empty the ash trays.

She answered the door with an ash tray in her hand, almost dropping it when she saw Milton Wood.

"Oh!" she cried. "Why didn't you telephone?"

"Does that mean that you are not going to let me in?" he smiled.

"Mrs. Lambert is not at home," Star began but he said quietly, "I know that. I saw her having lunch downtown. I came to see you."

She stood aside for him to pass, feeling as if she must be dreaming. Was he going to confess that in spite of everything he must see her?

The world whirled about her as she led the way into the living-room and, putting down the ash tray, sank into a chair.

He was here—in Nina's house. They had thought they would never be alone again yet here he was with his dear troubled face and unhappy eyes. The desire to run to him and comfort him made her feel faint but she remembered the decision they had made and waited to hear his explanation.

"I had to see you once more," he said, "to tell you good-bye. I'm going to Paris, Star. Leaving tomorrow. I cabled Jennifer this morning.

The room was so quiet that the ticking of the clock was noisily audible. Star felt paralyzed. She gazed at Milton with such despair that his own eyes turned away.

"I have never run out on a responsibility yet," he said grimly. "I'm not going to start now."

"You could accept your financial responsibility," she said in a low voice.

"Marriage is more than just a financial responsibility," he reminded her. "Jennifer may have disappointed me in some ways but remember I've disappointed her, too. That's no excuse for leaving her. She doesn't want a divorce. We've discussed it before."

No, Star thought bitterly, Jennifer wanted to be Mrs. Milton Wood. Jennifer would have her affairs with other men but she preferred to keep the right to use Milton Wood's charge accounts. And the social prestige of his name, in print were too important to surrender.

* * *

Jennifer had no love for the man himself. She made him pay for her kisses, then turned on him with such furious resentment that he cringed. No one else in the world dared to speak to him as Jennifer did. On the other hand, when she wanted something no one could be so sweet. Star had seen her in both moods.

She had also seen the effect on Jennifer's husband. Had watched the slow undermining of his confidence, the shattering of his sensitive nerves. He whose name and word were respected by every one else who knew him except his own wife.

But what more could Star do? What could she say?

"It's up to you, of course," she murmured in a voice choked with tears.

"Jennifer trusts me," he continued as if he had learned the words by heart. "She has as much confidence in my loyalty as I have in hers."

Words trembled on Star's lips but they were not uttered. Not even if she lost him could she be the one to tell what she knew. "He would never forgive me," she thought desperately. "It would stand between us for the rest of our lives."

"It is hopeless," she admitted. "Fate is against us."

He took her hand saying, "I shouldn't have come but I wanted to explain to you. I couldn't go to Paris without telling you good-bye."

"I'm glad you did," she stammered, scarcely knowing what she said. "But you'd better go now, Nina will be coming home."

The pain in his eyes would haunt her always. His voice as he said, "Good-bye, my darling! Please forgive me, Star."

* * *

Tears were streaming down her face as she heard the door close. Blindly she rushed upstairs but Nina stopped her at the door of the writing-room. She was still standing her hat and coat and her face was as white as Star's.

"Come in here," she said. I want to talk to you."

"When did you come in?" Star gasped but she could see by her employer's face that she had heard everything.

"At the psychological moment, as a novelist should," Nina replied flippantly. "I came through the garage. That's why you didn't see me." She fitted a cigarette into the amber holder but her hands were trembling.

"So it's Milton Wood you love?"

No use to deny it. In the face of what Nina must have heard detail would be futile. Star lifted her head.

"Yes," she said.

"What a story this would make!" Nina cried, blowing puffs of smoke furiously into the air.

But Star was not concerned about its dramatic possibilities.

"If you don't mind, I'm going to my room," she begged.

"But I do," Nina protested. "I am vitally concerned about this. More so than you realize. And I must know the score. Believe me, Star, it is not just idle curiosity."

"Why?" the girl demanded. Even if Nina were in love with him, too, did that give her the right to put her secretary through the third degree.

"I want to help you," Nina announced. "I owe it to you. After all, if it hadn't been for me you'd never have gone to work for Milton."

"No one can help," Star said desolately. She wondered if this were Nina's way of punishing her. She would pretend to be sympathetic so that Star would confide in her, then turn against her as she had with Bob.

"I heard what he said," Nina continued. 'He can't marry you because he won't run out on Jennifer. Is that right?"

Star looked at her suspiciously. "If you're thinking of telling Mrs. Wood about it, that won't do any good. She won't divorce him no matter what he does."

"I shouldn't even consider such a thing," Nina asured her. "I don't like the lady any better than you do. I can see it all so plainly now, Star. This is why you were willing to come back to me. Why Milton let you come. I yanked Bob out of your clutches so that you could fall into the arms of Milton Wood. He said he was going to Paris. Why?"

"To meet his wife."

"How delighted she is going to be," Nina said with a dry little laugh. "When is he sailing?"

"Tomorrow night. He's flying to New York."

Nina rose, putting out her cigarette.

"I see. Well, dry your tears, my dear. I think your troubles are over."

"Mrs. Lambert. What are you going to do?" Star asked in alarm, certain that she would only make the situation worse.

"I shan't be gone long," Nina answered. "Tell Mrs. Epperson I'll be home in time for dinner."

She ran down the stairs and presently Star heard the car tearing down the drive. Watching from the window, she saw Nina narrowly miss a post as she swerved through the wooden gateway. What in the world was she going to do? Well, things couldn't be any worse. And whatever it was, Milton understood Nina well enough to blame her artistic temperament. A writer, it seemed, could get away with anything.

McKechnie's Cincinnati Club Stronger

Mild Bill Unruffled by Rave Yarns on Rivals.

By DILLON GRAHAM

TAMPA, Fla.—(AP)—Mild Will McKechnie, the smart deacon from Pennsylvania, doesn't perturb easily.

* * *

If he did, he'd probably be chewing his cigar into shreds as he listens to forecasts that his Cincinnati Reds will finish second or third or fourth.

* * *

It's likely that a majority of the so-called experts down here figure—at this time—that the St. Louis Cardinals are the No. 1 team in the National league. Cincinnati gets the No. 2 call in most quarters, although there are certain prognosticators who see the Chicago Cubs or the Brooklyns or the Pittsburgh Pirates finishing ahead of the defending champions.

Mild Will is a precise and cautious man. He rarely indulges in reckless, unqualified statements such as that Monday must follow Sunday just because that has been the custom for thousands of years. Times are changing and before next week rolls around Monday may be following Wednesday. You never know. Will didn't think he'd ever see a time when we celebrated two Thanksgivings in one month. But we did.

And so the most that Will will say is that his Reds are stronger now than they were a year ago—and they won the National league pennant then.

"We're a better ball club than we were this time last Spring," Will says, "But," he adds, "the other contending clubs are better, too. Brooklyn is stronger, so is St. Louis. And the Cubs certainly should be troublesome."

* * *

But what about those Cards? They came awful fast late last year.

* * *

"The Cards are a fine ball club," Will conceded. "But I like my club. Don't forget that when the Cards were in first place we challenged them and took over the lead. And we held it all season. Down the stretch when they came up to our necks again we knocked them back, didn't we? The Reds are going to be all right.

"I don't figure they've got any more power than they had last year and we had power enough to beat them."

The Cards have a fine carry-over pitching staff and some good newcomers, too.

"I wouldn't trade Derringer, Walters, Vander Meer, Moore, Thompson and Turner for any half dozen the Cards have," Will said. "Of course, they have some pitchers I'd trade for, but take their first six against mine, and I'd rather have mine.

"It's possible that the four or five additional pitchers they'll carry will be better than mine. That's something we can't tell in advance. You never know how some of the youngsters or minor league graduates will turn out."

But it is doubtful that Derringer and Walters will win 52 games between them again.

* * *

"I don't expect them to," Will asserted. "I think our other pitchers will do better than they did a year ago and take some of the burden off Paul and Busky. But I'll tell you—if it turns out that we need 52 wins from that pair I'll gamble that they'll come through with them."

* * *

Pennants, Will explained, are won in September and not in the Spring. Lots can happen during those summer months. "The Reds," he said, "sort of like that first place slot and I have an idea they're going to be hard to dislodge."

Vitt Orders Bat Practice After Setback

Indians Drop Third Game To Rochester, 5-1.

FORT MYERS—(U.P.)—Manager Oscar Vitt ordered batting practice for the Cleveland Indians today before their game with the New York Giants. Despite Bob Feller's breezy mound job yesterday in which he struck out eight Rochester Red Wings in four innings, allowed two hits and walked only one, Vitt was not satisfied with the batting.

* * *

The tribe got only five hits in losing to the minor leaguers, 5-1.

* * *

Feller said he wished sports writers would quit predicting 30 victories for him this season. The fireball artist said it might look easy to others, but certainly not to him.

"There's one other thing I would like published," Feller said. "I've been thinking it over all week and I'm really set against spring all-star games from now on.

"That's not sour grapes because I got beaten, but it seems to me it subtracts from the importance of the real one and doesn't do anybody justice so early in the grind."

The New York Giants were here today for their second game with the Indians. Johnny Humphries, Al Smith and Bill Zuber were to pitch for Cleveland

Seasoned Vets Assault Pins

Chicago Area Clubs Mix-up Team Standings in ABC.

DETROIT — (U.P.) — Seasoned veterans continued their assault on front positions of the American Bowling congress again today after mixing the five-man team standings last night.

* * *

Quintets from the Chicago area moved into second, third and ninth place. Hinsdale Arcades of Hinsdale, Ill., reached 2,880 with games of 945-972-963. Samuel Clineff rapped down 672 pins for a promising start toward all-events honors.

* * *

Bennett's Ace Arcade from another Chicago suburb pushed into third place with a 2,858, led by Ted Svoma who totalled 589. Vogel brothers of Forest Park, Ill., took over ninth position with 2,810.

Breidt's Brews No. 1, Elizabeth, N. J., threat, failed to poke into the higher brackets with a 2,597. Ray Nolen, eastern star for many seasons, rolled only 493.

Changes occurred only in the five man event: Ambrosia Brewing company, Chicago, 2,922. Hinsdale Arcade, Hinsdale, Ill., 2,880. Bennett's Ace Arcade, Chicago, 2,858. Frank Gaglione and Son, Buffalo, 2,850. Silver Seal Soda, St. Louis, 2,843.

FINNISH STAR LEADS FIELD AT ANN ARBOR

ANN ARBOR — (U.P.) — Taisto Maki of Finland leads a star packed field into the Michigan AAU relays at Yost fieldhouse tonight for the benefit of the Finnish relief fund.

Defeated in his last start at Kansas City by Walzr Mehl of Wisconsin, Maki is waiting for a chance to redeem his world-champion standing.

SPEAKER FLIES TO COAST TO REMIND TED OF BOUT

CLEVELAND — (INS) — Tris Speaker, chairman of the Cleveland boxing commission, flew to Los Angeles today to do what he could about persuading Teddy Yarosz of Pittsburgh that he has a date in Cleveland next Wednesday night.

Yarosz, in California on his honeymoon, has indicated he would remain in California for a 10-rounder with Turkey Thompson, Tuesday night.

Red Sox Won't Concede Title To Yank Club

Joe Cronin Can't See Why Other Teams Have Inferior Complex; Points to Boston Record.

By SID MERCER

SARASOTA—(INS)—The Boston Red Sox are conceding nothing to the Yankees this year—not even an edge in the pitching. For the last two years they have outhit the champions in team averages. In 1938 they broke even with the Bronx Bullies in 22 games and last season they won 11 out of 19, five of them in a row. Thus they are the only American league contender to stand off or win a season's series from the Yanks since 1937. And Manager Joe Cronin cannot see why other teams in the league suffer from inferiority complexes when they play the Yankees.

Possibly Cronin has an idea that Red Ruffing and Lefty Gomez won't be so good this year. For that matter, neither may Lefty Grove, who celebrated his 40th birthday down here in the Boston training camp. But the Sox still figure to get better pitching than last year when they failed to beat second division teams as consistently as did the Yankees.

* * *

A year ago Woodrow Rich and Jim Bagby, two young right handers, were expected to be big winners for Boston. Both failed and finished in the minors. Rich acquired a sore arm early in the season but this spring he is coming along nicely.

* * *

The Yankees, with DiMaggio, Keller, Dickey, Gordon and Rolfe driving in runs, still pack that wicked punch and they figure to get the same brilliant defense that bulwarked their pitchers last season. So if the Red Sox are to break the New York pennant stride this year they must do it with better pitching.

Cronin gambled on Ted Williams last year and won. He is gambling again with Dominick DiMaggio, who has replaced Joe Vosmik in the Boston outfield. Young DiMaggio will play the sun field, switching from left to right with Williams. So far the kid brother of the ball playing family has looked good.

Williams appears to be set for another big year and in center is the reliable Roger Cramer. Lou Finner and Leo Nonnenkamp are the extra outfielders.

Boston's infield should outhit the Yankee inner line and here in this camp they rate it a better defensive infield than New York's. However, Dahlgren at first base gives the Yankees the edge in fielding and Foxx, at first, gives the Sox the edge in hitting. Down here they argue by the hour that Bobby Doerr is a better all around second baseman than Joe Gordon. Cronin will be back at shortstop and Jim Tabor at third.

* * *

The Bosox are shy in one important department. They have no catcher to match Bill Dickey. Gene Desautels and Johnny Peacock will again share the backstop duties.

* * *

Eleven pitchers will be carried by the Boston club. Classed as starters are Grove, Rich, Jack Wilson, Bagby and Herbert Hash, the latter from Minneapolis. Freddy Ostermueller, who took three decisions over the Yankees in four starts last season, will not be ready when the season opens due to a sinus attack.

Grove cannot go more often than once a week so the Sox will not have much left handed pitching in the early part of the season.

As the two outfits now shape up and barring accidents to key men, the Yankees still must get the call over their perennial pursuers.

Newark Enters Relays Field

Stages First Event May 4; Nine Meets on Card.

COLUMBUS —(AP)— Nine independent track and field meets will give Buckeye scholastic thinclads the seasoning needed to insure top-notch performance at the state championships May 24-25.

Latest addition to the tune-up schedule is the Newark relay event there May 4 under sponsorship of the High School Athletic association, assisted by a civic group.

* * *

Association officials said 20 Ohio schools already had indicated teams would be entered. Contestants from Erie, Pa., and Huntington, W. Va., were among probable out-of-state entries.

* * *

The cinder season gets under way this year with simultaneous meets at Mansfield and Delaware April 27. Previously those annual carnivals have been held on separate dates.

Toledo Devilbiss holds its night relays May 3. Meets the following day in addition to Newark will be at Salem, Mentor, Lanier and Poland. Miami university's tri-state carnival falls on May 10-11.

District meets preceding the state championship; will be held May 17-18.

DUQUESNE, INDIANA TO DECIDE EASTERN TITLE

INDIANAPOLIS —(AP)— Rangy, hard-driving quintets from Duquesne and Indiana universities meet tonight in the final game of eastern division eliminations of the national collegiate athletic association's annual basketball tournament.

Indiana's crimson put the only blot on Duquesne's record in the regular season, 51 to 49, at Pittsburgh.

Spills 669 Pins In Moose League

Babe Meder Collects Games of 220, 217 and 232; Bill Hipp Rolls 265 Game.

EDDIE (BABE) MEDER whipped his mineralite into the strike pocket consistently last night to wrap up a 669 series to set the scoring pace at the Meder alleys last night.

Bowling with the No. 1 entry in the Moose Home league, Meder collected games of 220, 217 and 232. His efforts were useless, however, his team dropping three tilts to No. 8.

* * *

Team scoring laurels went to the No. 6 club, which hit 2740 as it took two tilts from No. 2. Farrell Hipp's 612 was high.

* * *

Closing with a 244, Pete Grohol reached the 617 figures as he led No. 7 to a pair of wins over No. 3, paced by Bill Hipp's 619. Young Hipp's 265 game was one of the features of last night's scoring. No. 5 chalked up two wins at the expense of No. 4 in the other match.

Who'll Win Feature Bout Monday Night

Wrestling Fans Divided In Opinion as to the Winner of Match at Armory.

WHO will win—the Masked Marvel or "the Hun"?

That's the question which Mansfield fans have been arguing pro and con since the announcement Friday that these two mysterious masked wrestlers have been signed to meet here on next Monday night in a two-out-of-three falls match to a finish.

* * *

The majority of local fans are picking "the Hun." They point out that he is apparently stronger than the Masked Marvel, that he will hold a considerable weight edge, and that he is even more vicious and heartless than the Marvel if that is possible.

* * *

Those who have seen "the Hun" in all of his matches here aver that he is an old head at the game. Add an edge in experience to his other advantages and it adds up to only one answer—victory for "the Hun."

That's the arguments advanced by some fans. Others who have watched the Masked Marvel in action here several years ago and then during the past year since his return to this section from his Pacific Coast home say that his record alone indicates victory for him.

* * *

They point out that he has not yet been defeated in his past 157 matches over the past five years. They point out that he wrestled even with Stacy Hall, world's lightheavyweight champion, and that he has defeated every man whom he has met here including the slashing Italian "Bull" Marine.

* * *

Regardless of all these arguments, however, one point has found universal favor among local fans—it'll be a finish match and one or the other will be forced to take off his mask and disclose his identity. Interest is runing high among local fans and the affair may attract the greatest crowd in history here.

Ohio Linksmen Change Dates

Shifts Ohio Amateur Meet To Late In June.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The Ohio Golf association decided today to change the dates of its annual seniors and Ohio amateur tournaments, and the site of the state juniors event.

* * *

The Ohio amateur, originally set for June 19-22 at the Cleveland Shaker Heights club, was shifted to June 26-29 at the same course, while the seniors event, for golfers 50 years old or over, was changed from June 27-28 to June 20-21. It will be held at the Sciote club in Columbus.

* * *

The junior tourney, for members of private clubs only, is set for Aug. 30, but was shifted from Columbus Country club to the Lima-Shawnee layout.

The junior and senior tournaments are 36-hole medal play events, while the amateur consists of one 18-hole medal play qualifier and three days of match play.

BOWLERS INVADE MARION

The Mansfielders invade Marion today to participate in the Inter-City tournament. The keglers bowl in the double and singles at 3 p. m. and the five man event at 7 p. m.

Paychek, Good Heavyweight, Lacks 'Oomph' for Louis

By SID FEDER

POMPTON LAKES, N. J.—(AP)—Take an automobile for instance. Benny Leonard pointed out.

* * *

"Okay, Benneh, where'll we take it?" his listeners innocently inquired, a trifle wary, what with the ex-lightweight king expounding on Johnny Paychek, a favorite subject these spring afternoons.

* * *

"All right, gag all you want to," Benny went on. "But an engine has to be in high gear to run best, doesn't it? Well, the same goes for Paychek. It takes him a couple of rounds to get warmed up and going good. So, if he gets by those first two heats next Friday night, he's going to give Joe Louis trouble."

Writers and other "experts" had driven out from New York, expecting to be convinced that the Des Moines heavyweight with the sparse hair could barely escape getting killed in his date with the Brown Bomber in Madison Square Garden next week. And after watching him go five rounds with a trio of fellows dressed up as sparring partners, they just about were. He just doesn't have the stuff to topple the ring's boss man.

However, there are three things you discover in watching him work, despite the woefulness of what passes as his sparmates. First, he does know how to move around in the accredited ring style.

* * *

No fighter could have have gone through 50 professional fights without picking up at least a working knowledge of that handy little habit. Second, he can punch with a short right hand to the head, and third, he digs a left hook into the body with some authority.

* * *

With this equipment, he's a good run-of-the-mine heavyweight, capable of giving any of 'em a busy evening. But the boy who beats Joe Louis is going to have a little extra "oomph."

"Woods and Waters"
By YUNCKER BROS.

Although the Canadian Parliament proclaimed a declaration of war last fall, American sportsmen are privileged to enter Canada with the customary ease. Canadian authorities wish to assure Americans that they will encounter no difficulty in entering or leaving their country.

* * *

While most forms of American wildlife have diminished in the advance of civilization, the rodents, with a few exceptions have increased. Woodchucks or groundhogs, for instance, have actually become greater in number as forests were cut and fields cleared for the plow, according to American Wildlife Institute.

* * *

Young small fish are fry and fingerlings, and not minnows. Minnows are a distinct kind of fish, marked by lack of teeth in the jaws, lack of scales on the head, and lack of spiny rays on the fins.

POPEYE— The Last Laugh.

PAM— In Danger? By A. W. Brewerton

YES, IT'S A VERY UNUSUAL, PECULIAR LEASE! THE ORIGINAL LESSEE, WILLIAM HARDESTY, PAID DOWN A LUMP SUM FOR POSSESSION DURING THE ENTIRE TERM OF THE LEASE, FIFTY YEARS! — THAT WAS A MERE NOTHING TO WHAT THE PROPERTY IS WORTH NOW — BUT, THERE IS--
3-23
--A CLAUSE IN THE LEASE WHICH SAYS IF THE LESSOR, WHO WAS JOHN MONROE, OR HIS HEIRS, DO NOT GIVE NOTICE OF AGAIN TAKING POSSESSION WITHIN A SPECIFIED TIME AFTER THE LEASE EXPIRES, THE LESSEE HAS THE OPTION OF RENEWING THE LEASE FOR THE SAME PERIOD, ON THE SAME TERMS! —THAT TIME IS ALMOST UP, WHICH IS WHY HARDESTY'S DESCENDANTS ARE TRYING TO DELAY OUR ACTION!
--EVIDENTLY JOHN MONROE AND HIS DESCENDANTS AND HEIRS PRACTICALLY FORGOT ABOUT THIS LEASE AND PROPERTY, UNTIL THIS POOR MRS. MARY MONROE FOUND THE PAPER IN AN OLD TRUNK AND BROUGHT IT TO ME AND ON INVESTIGATION I LEARNED SHE IS THE NEAREST SURVIVING HEIR AND RIGHTFUL OWNER OF THE PROPERTY!
THAT EVENING!
CLARE, I'M REAL WORRIED ABOUT THE OLD COLONEL! HE'S HANDLING A CASE ABOUT WHICH SOME TERRIBLE MEN HAVE MADE ALARMING THREATS! —I'M SO AFRAID— HE MAY GET HURT!
IS THE COLONEL REALLY IN DANGER?
REALLY, PAM?!?

NARROW MART PRICE RANGE CLOUDS TRENDS

Federal Reserve Summary Showing Sales Up Helps Encourage Traders.

(By Associated Press)

NEW YORK — Narrow price changes either way left stock market trends in doubt today.

Some market encouragement was derived from the federal reserve summary showing the country's department store sales last week topped the like period last year by 6 per cent.

Notice was taken of the commerce department figures indicating that while wholesale activities in February were a trifle under those for the preceding month, they were well above February a year ago.

Analysts saw little significance in a small dip in this week's automobile production. A shutdown of one plant for yesterday's holiday was said to have accounted for the drop.

Hopkins as Southern Belle.

Miriam Hopkins, who was one of the disappointed stars who sought the Scarlet O'Hara role, comes to the front at last in "Virginia City," playing the part of the Confederate spy and a southern gal of fiery temper. This picture of the final stages of the Civil War begins today at the Ohio theater. Errol Flynn plays the role of Kerry Bradford, a Union Inteligence officer imprisoned in Libby Prison, Richmond, Virginia. Alan Hale and "Big Boy" Williams have contributing parts.

* * *

Jean Has To Choose.

"Too Many Husbands," aptly describes Jean Arthur's predicament in the new film, which opens today at the Madison theater. She has been married to Fred MacMurray and at his reported death, she turns to his best friend, Melvyn Douglas. They are married, and then trouble develops. Harry Davenport, as Jean's sympathetic father, takes the role of one who doesn't care which of the two men she chooses—just so long as she chooses one and gets rid of the other before the law catches up with her.

* * *

Comedy and Intrigue.

Beginning Sunday at the Majestic theater will be "Blondie Meets the Boss," and Jack Holt in "Outside the 3-Mile Limit." Holt is starred as a daring G-Man who sets out upon the trail of a dangerous gang of counterfeiters and killers. The story opens on the palatial gambling ship, "Challenger," anchored safely outside the legal limit.

* * *

Story of Famous Band.

How a famous band leader, lured to Hollywood, strives to avoid being a screen star, is the hilarious basis of "That's Right—You're Wrong," co-starring Kay Kyser and Adolphe Menjou. The scintillating story presents Kyser as himself—leader of one of the country's popular bands. In addition the cast includes May Robson, Lucille Ball, Dennis O'Keefe and Edward Everett Horton. "South of The Border" is the second feature starring Gene Autry.

* * *

Wife Versus Secretary.

"Day Time Wife" which opens Sunday at the Ritz theater is a romantic comedy about a young married couple, very much in love. Then when friend husband begins to phone he'll be detained at the office, his young wife begins to wonder. She suspects his secretary, Wendy Barrie. The roles of the young couple are played by Linda Darnell and Tyrone Power. The second feature is "Twenty Thousand Men a Year," with Randolph Scott, Prestin Foster and Margaret Lindsay in the cast.

CONVICTED IN SAFE-CRACKING AT LOUDONVILLE

Akron Man Found Guilty by Ashland Jury; Sentenced To Serve 2 Terms.

ASHLAND — John Sopko, 33, Akron, convicted as the person who broke into the Loudonville Farmers Equity on the morning of Jan. 18, and of attempting to crack the safe, was to be taken to the Ohio penitentiary today to begin serving two concurrent terms.

Sopko was convicted by a jury of six men and six women after two and one half days of testimony.

With the conviction of Sopko, similar charges against Clarence Zenner, one of the trio said to have been implicated in the attempt, were nolled. The charges against him were dropped because of lack of evidence, it was pointed out.

Sopko, who has been in the county jail here since Jan. 18, after being picked up in Akron and turned over to local police, was sentenced by Judge H. E. Culbertson.

For breaking and entering, he will serve a term of from one to 15 years and for the attempted safe breaking he was given a term of from one to 20 years. Both sentences will run concurrently.

The case against Sopko was built up by Prosecuting Attorney A Ross Siverling almost entirely on circumstantial evidence. The jurors required only 63 minutes to bring in the conviction verdict.

We Meet a Lot of New Men Thru' Our Hats!

When a new man comes to town he usualiy doesn't rush in the first week for a Matthes suit. Rather, he sort of feels us out on a smaller purchase and hats are the style barometer that most men go by.

That's where we hit the male on the head.
